CONGRESS IN WARM BATTLE ON FARM RELIEF

FATE OF TAX BILL DECIDED BY PETITION

Democrats Hope to Persuade Republican Members to Vote for Action

REQUIRE 36 G. O. P. NAMES

Majority Leaders Fear General Revision of Tax Rates at Present

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—If the people of the United States really want a credit or rebate on the taxes they paid this year, congress is anxious to know about it. The Republican leaders have come to the conclusion that the people would just as soon apply the existing surplus to the retirement of the public debt. The Democratic leaders think otherwise. So an old rule is to be invoked whereby signatures on a petition from a majority of the members of the house will be sought so that the house ways and means committee will be prevented from suppressing the proposed tax revision bills.

The Democrats, who have 182 members, need 36 Republicans to sign the petition and insure a majority. President Coolidge in his annual message recommended a tax credit so that Republicans in the house have the choice of standing by Mr. Coolidge on their own leaders. The Democrats are content that 36 Republicans can be found to support Mr. Coolidge, for it is that part of the program which they will attempt first to present to the house, amending it later to take care of permanent changes in the tax rates.

WOULD AVOID DEBATE

As matters stand now, the Republican leaders, fearing a general revision of the tax rates, are refusing to adopt President Coolidge's suggestion for a tax credit, which would furnish an opportunity for debating the whole subject. The Republican leaders have it in their power to kill all tax bills in the house committee and under the federal constitution.

SLAIN DETECTIVE'S WIFE FACES CHARGES

Mrs. Edith M. Bishop Accused of Murdering Husband in Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Okla. — (AP) — Mrs. Edith M. Bishop, wife of the state detective who was shot to death as he slept in his home here Dec. 5, was held in jail here Wednesday on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Bishop was arrested Tuesday, following a week of investigation by state officials, and after scores of men with criminal records had been questioned on the theory that underworld enemies of Bishop had shot him to death because of his unusual success in breaking up bandit gangs.

Authorities turned from the theory that gangsters had slain him, when his two pistols were found in a closet near the bedroom where the shooting occurred. Mrs. Bishop declared she knew little about the killing except that she was sleeping in a bed near her husband's when she was awakened by a shot. The shooting continued, she said, as she fled to summon aid.

A coroner's jury found that eight bullets had been fired from Bishop's pistols and that seven struck him.

FORMER KAISER AGAIN CONFINED BY ILLNESS

Doorn, Holland — (AP) — Former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, was confined to his bed Wednesday with what was described as an "influenza cold."

The ex-kaiser three weeks ago suffered an attack of rheumatism following a severe cold which he contracted while tramping about the grounds of Doorn house, his place of exile, during wet weather. He was kept to his bed for several days, and his eldest son, former Crown Prince Frederick William made the trip from Germany to visit him. The former emperor will be 68 on Jan. 27.

M'GINNITY RELEASED AS BROOKLYN COACH

New York — (AP) — Joe McGinnity, baseball's iron man, who could pitch double-headers on successive days for the Giants years ago, has been released as coach by Brooklyn after serving one year. McGinnity, although now 55, retired from the playing field only a season ago.

Number Of Gifts To Poor Depend On Contributions

Back in the days when an orange was a luxury instead of a "vitaminic" necessity do you remember what an awful wallop it gave your soul when you got that sled, or what was it? That you had set your mind on as being the one thing under heaven or on earth that could make you "really" happy.

The fishing season being pretty well over for 1926 the chances are 10 to 1 that if you start digging for the old grouch bag you won't find a fish hook in your pocket.

It is estimated that there are 225 families in Appleton to whom Christmas will be a reverse English joke unless something substantial is done about it.

The Good Fellows Club is going to do that something substantial.

Along about Christmas time there doesn't seem to be much solace to the poor in discussions of underlying sociological and economic reasons for financial ineptitude.

Fact is folks the Good Fellows don't give a whoop about underlying causes right now.

You know that nature's plan of parent selectivity has a way of completely ignoring Labson or Bradstreet.

Do the poor have children?

You didn't know it?

Well you tell 'em world—the poor have children and just figure for a minute about how many children there about in those 225 pinched homes.

Kind of staggering total, now isn't it?

And those kids—say they're just like other kids—you bet your life they want that candy and orange and that sled—or what was it?—just exactly as much and as earnestly as you did back in the days when Dewey was studying the folk lore of the Moros.

For a city where 65 per cent of the adult population own their own homes, where there is no slum district, wouldn't it be pretty bad business, if not downright rotten, to disappoint those waiting kids.

Don't ask yourself, what'll it cost me?

Stop and do a little bookkeeping. A five case note will go a long ways at that when you are casting up in your mind what those little fellows want to find in the Christmas stockings. Surprising how much a dollar bill will do, too.

You'll know what you ought to give—the big danger is procrastination. The Good Fellows Club coupon is on another page. Notice that list of names. There's a blank space waiting for yours.

Incidentally this fund is going to cover more than the tinsel and happiness of Christmas.

Probably not one of these homes but where necessities are needed, mightily badly. Clothing, food, coal and wood can be included, old Santa's pack in just that proportion that those who can afford it donate to the annual reindeer trip sponsored by the club.

Turn the page—and think it over.

LITTLE IMPORTED HOLIDAY LIQUOR

Andrews Says Cold Weather Deters Activities of Rum Row Smugglers

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — Imported liquors for Christmas will be scarce if Lincoln C. Andrews, commander-in-chief of the government prohibition forces has been correctly informed, and furthermore, if he has his way, "under cover" enforcement agents will be sent to the waterfronts to search for the "rum row" is reported there.

After a canvass of his sources of information he has concluded that the smugglers are not doing much to cheer up the bootleggers and their clients, and that the icy blasts which are sweeping out from the northeastern shore line are chilling the blood only of innocent seafarers, for a trade of historic "rum row" is reported there.

Meanwhile the senate appropriations committee has gladdened the heart of the enforcement chief by easing one of his most pressing apprehensions. It has reinstated in the treasury-post office supply bill a provision to appropriate $500,000 for the activities of the prohibition units "under cover" men, which was eliminated in the house.

BLAINE NAMES LAWYER IN KLAN RIOT PROBE

Marquette — (AP) — Governor Blaine has appointed Attorney F. M. Wylie of Madison, as special commissioner in the Ku Klux Klan hearing which will open here Thursday afternoon.

The special hearing was granted by Governor Blaine after five Marquette men were given suspended sentences on the conviction of participating in a riot here last June. The men were given a reprieve soon after conviction, pending a hearing of the case.

Benito Requests It And Schipa Speaks To 'Mike'

Chicago — (AP) — The Fascist arm of Benito Mussolini reached into Chicago Tuesday night to break, temporarily, some thirty contracts which forbid Tito Schipa's singing over radio.

Schipa, Italian tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera company, was sought by station WGN of the Chicago Tribune to take part in a program featured by the broadcasting of a message by Mussolini himself. The Schipa contracts, however, contain clauses against his appearing before a microphone.

Word of the difficulty reached Mussolini, a close friend of the singer. The Italian government then prevailed upon the American directors to lift the radio ban for this single occasion.

Besides Singer Schipa, Premier Mussolini had an all-star supporting cast for his radio debut in America. Three other stars of the Chicago Opera company took part in the program: Rosa Raisa, Giacomo Rimini and Virgilio Lazzari. Fascist melodies also were played by an orchestra. It was the first time Mussolini's voice ever had been heard in America.

Mussolini appeared before the recording microphone in riding habit. He stood close to the instrument and spoke in a conversational tone.

The message, radioed Tuesday night was in Italian but an English translation also was given. It expressed the opinion that America and Italy have built an "indissoluble relation of cordiality, friendship and collaboration which will cause them to travel a long road together."

SPONSORS OF HAUGEN BILL MAY DISAGREE

Frank L. Smith Warned Not to Accept Position of Late Senator McKinley

BULLETIN

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — Carrying a total of $250,000,000, the annual interior department appropriation bill was passed by the house Wednesday and sent to the senate.

BULLETIN

Washington — (AP) — Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee, joined house Republican leaders Wednesday in opposing any tax relief legislation at this session after senate Democrats had urged the administration to put through a bill.

Washington — (AP) — The famous farm relief partnership of McNary and Haugen appeared Wednesday to be in the course of dissolution as the fight over the agriculture problem waxed warmer in congress.

Failure of senate farm leaders to ask Chairman Haugen of the house committee, to introduce the McNary bill which was offered Tuesday in the senate, gave color to the story told by Mr. Haugen's associates that he objects to elimination of certain tariff provision which was a part of the old McNary-Haugen surplus control measure. Mr. Haugen remains silent on the new proposal.

Meanwhile Representatives Purnell, Republican, Indiana, and Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina, who were requested by senate leaders to introduce the new McNary bill in the house are undecided as to their course, and have indicated they would make no move until Chairman Haugen has expressed himself.

A move by Representative Howard, Democrat, Nebraska, to have the house devote half of its time until the Christmas adjournment to farm relief was blocked Wednesday by Chairman Snell of the rules committee.

A bill prepared by Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, proposing to relieve agriculture by permitting the federal intermediate credit banks to make loans of $1,000,000 to farmers appeared in the senate Wednesday.

WARNING TO SMITH

Senate Republican leaders Wednesday warned Frank L. Smith, senator-elect from Illinois, not to accept the appointment to fill the seat left vacant by the late Senator McKinley of Illinois, if it were tendered him. A resolution introduced by Senator Dill.

MARION TALLEY MUST BE PAID IN ADVANCE

New Rochelle — (AP) — When Miss Marion Talley sings in concert, she must be paid in advance. The youth-folk Metropolitan opera star failed to sing at a concert Tuesday night because, $3,000, the sum guaranteed for her appearance was not paid in advance. A capacity audience of 1,300 persons was disappointed and Miss Veronice Govers, a teacher of music at the New Rochelle college for women, who promoted the affair, was reduced to tears. The concert was cancelled by Miss Talley's manager, P. C. Coppicus who said Miss Govers offered personal checks for $1,800 and offered to pay the balance after the concert. He asserted it was a fixed policy to obtain full payment in advance. Miss Talley expressed regret at disappointing her audience.

BURNS AND FREEZES HIS FACE AT SUPERIOR FIRE

Superior — (AP) — Standing on ladder in a bitter cold wind, with the thermometer registering 12 below, Anders Johansen, 35, fireman, had one side of his face burned and the other side frozen while fighting a fire in a small north end hotel late Tuesday afternoon. He will be confined to St. Mary's hospital for several days. He was holding a hose that was pouring a stream of water through one of the windows of the hotel.

John Swanson, 52, guest at the hotel, overcome by smoke and carried from the blazing building by firemen, was released from the hospital Wednesday.

O'ROURKE WIDOW GETS ALIEN CUSTODIAN JOB

Milwaukee — (AP) — The widow of John M. O'Rourke, will fill the place he vacated recently as alien property custodian for Milwaukee-co, a federal job.

Appointment of Mrs. Winifred O'Rourke, a licensed real estate operator to succeed her husband was announced Tuesday night by Congressman John C. Schaefer, Milwaukee. It was made by Howard Sutherland, alien property custodian at Washington. O'Rourke, LaPollette progressive who was a candidate for secretary of state at the recent primaries, died several weeks ago.

IS ILL

Chicago — (AP) — Another complication in the efforts of Los Angeles authorities to arrest Kenneth Ormiston, fugitive radio man in the Albee Semple McPherson case, appeared Wednesday in announcement that illness would prevent Ormiston's immediate surrender in answer to the papers sent from Chicago.

GANGSTER WAS ARMED NIGHT OF SLAYING

Bitzler Testifies McDermott Carried Gun and Boasted of Bribe

Canton, Ohio — (AP) — Patrick Eugene McDermott, on trial charged with the first degree murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton editor, carried a gun the night Mellett was slain, and told William Bitzler he would "have $200 in the morning," Bitzler, state's "surprise witness," testified Wednesday morning.

Bitzler's testimony painted a background of alleged police corruption and bootlegging as the setting for McDermott's activities early on the night the publisher was slain.

ADMITTS CRIMINAL RECORD

On cross-examination Bitzler admitted existence of his own criminal record. Bitzler testified he talked to McDermott on the Tuesday evening preceding the slaying of Mellett and said McDermott told him, "I stand in here. I can do whatever I want and no cop would do anything about it."

MOTHERHOOD GREATEST TRIUMPH, SINGER SAYS

New York — (AP) — Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink considers motherhood and American citizenship superior to the triumphs of 50 years on the operatic and concert stage. The 65-year-old singer gave her views at a testimonial luncheon in her honor Tuesday. She is midway on a "gold-jubilee" tour of 20,000 miles.

"The greatest thing to me is not the honors I have received," she told the 1,000 men and women present, "but that I am an American citizen and mother."

EMPEROR OF JAPAN IS RECOVERING, REPORT

Tokio — (AP) — The house department issued a bulletin Wednesday afternoon reporting improvement in the condition of Emperor Yoshihito, who is critically ill with pneumonia at Hiyama.

Elephant Roams Free For Four Days; Is Captured

Ottawa, Kans. — (AP) — Diamond, territorial circus pachyderm, has allowed trainers to anchor him to a tree after staging a four-day demonstration that southern Kansas fences, streams and small buildings are no handicap to a four-ton elephant.

Escaping from the winter quarters of a circus at Quenemo, last Saturday, Diamond started a cross-country trek that interrupted or speeded traffic and caused farmers temporarily to abandon outside work along a 55 mile route in four counties. Although he pushed through fences, leveled a few chicken houses, and stepped on a terrified pig, he injured no one.

Diamond, when approached, would renew his tour in whatever direction he happened to be facing. Heavy shotguns of possumen failed to alter his course.

Learning that he might develop pneumonia, trainers Tuesday appeared with two circus horses, used in moving the elephant herd from trains. As soon as the horses approached, the huge beast stopped, swayed from side to side and generally intimidated surrender. While he stroked the horses with his trunk, the trainers hobbled and tied him to a tree. A fire was kept burning near him throughout the night as the first incentive to the plan to escort him home Wednesday.

FALL'S JUDGE

HUNT MISSING OLSON YOUTH IN FLORIDA

Man Resembling Murder Suspect Seen; Disappears as Cops Start Hunt

Miami, Fla. — (AP) — A man thought by his fellow workers to be Edmund Olson, wanted in Prairie du Chien, in connection with the murder of Clara Olson disappeared here Tuesday, an hour before police searched the house where he had been working.

On information that a young man resembling Olson had been working at odd jobs for a week on lower south bay shore drive, officers hurried to the place to learn the suspect had "gone to lunch" at 10:30. A cordon of plainclothes men were stationed around the house but he did not return. Workmen at the house said he was Swedish in appearance and they identified a newspaper picture of Olson as the suspect.

MEDIUM 'REVEALS' LOCATION

Eau Claire — (AP) — Because a medium in a trance "revealed" to him that Edmund Olson, 15-year-old Prairie du Chien youth sought for slaying of his sweetheart is now in Norway, S. C. Alf, 11, of Eau Claire, is planning the lad's capture.

He intends to work his way to Europe, locate the boy and claim the reward for his arrest. Alf sought a picture of Olson Wednesday to aid in his search. He was firm in his belief that he will be successful. A friend of his, he said, revealed the fugitive whereabouts while in a trance. This friend is gifted with spiritualistic powers.

The boy was said by the medium to be residing in Norway with relatives but intends to go to another part of the country and establish himself in business. The medium also "revealed" that Edmund had spent some time in Eau Claire selling magazines while on his way to Winnipeg, which he left to ship to Norway from Quebec.

Alf, who said he would start on the journey in a day or two, expects to divide his reward with his spiritualistic friend.

INDICT 33 IN LIQUOR PROBE IN NEW JERSEY

New York — (AP) — Thirty-three men, including the mayor and chief of police of Edgewater, N. J., a United States customs inspector and a New York city marine police sergeant, were under indictment Wednesday as a result of an eight months investigation of the landing of a 2,000,000 liquor cargo at Edgewater from the S. S. Eger, Edgewater is on the New Jersey shore of the Hudson river, opposite upper Manhattan.

The Eger was seized in the Hudson river near Yonkers on April 29 two days after Captain Hugh Wunsche of the Marine police found an unmarked envelope containing $5,000 on his desk and reported it. When seized the Eger had aboard $500,000 worth of whiskey, malt 6,000 gallons of alcohol.

VALENTINO TREASURES ARE SOLD AT AUCTION

Hollywood, Calif. — (AP) — A throng of men and women from the middle walk of life, strangely out of harmony with the glittering array before them, matched bids here Tuesday with a scattering of him folk, professional men and tourists for the personal treasures of Rudolph Valentino, symbols of the luxury that was his, in an auction sale to dispose of the late screen star's worldly goods.

From the moment the auctioneer took his place on the platform until darkness halted the sale, the bidding was spirited. Adolph Menjou of three picture stars recognized at the sale, was the only purchaser for the film colony. He paid $200 for an antique cabinet and $1,750 for a Spanish carved screen.

DEFENSE ASKS QUICK VERDICT OF ACQUITTAL

Question Given Jury Shortly After Noon, Following Final Argument

CLAIM DISTORTED FACTS Justice Hoehling Outlines Points of Law Which Will Decide Case

BULLETIN

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — The Fall-Doherty oil conspiracy case was placed in the hands of the jury at 2:17 Wednesday afternoon.

The battle came to its conclusion with a crash of legal forensics. Three defense lawyers, and one for the government, followed each other swiftly in the final brief session of argument.

JUDGE INSTRUCTS JURY

Justice Hoehling then recessed court until 1:30 Wednesday afternoon, before beginning his instructions to the jury, outlining the points of law on which it will be determined whether the oil magnate and the then interior secretary violated the conspiracy statute when Doherty sent Fall $100,000 before the Doherty company was awarded leases to government oil land.

The defense told the 12 men in the jury box that the $100,000 was a private loan.

Mark B. Thomson, personal attorney for Fall, said it was "the cleanest money that ever passed from one man's hand to another."

He also said for the "secretary," John J. Lambert, accused government counsel of distorting the facts after the best manner of Houdini, and Frank J. Hogan, chief of the Doherty attorneys, asked that the two defendants be returned to the their home and families "by sundown tonight."

Former Senator Alcee Pomerene, replying for the prosecution, said the $100,000 transaction and the leasing negotiations alike had been deliberately surrounded with secrecy in furtherance of a plot by "two master minds."

"The whole thing said Pomerene, "was conceived in fraud and born of inquiry."

GREEN BAY HARBOR MAY BE IMPROVED

Army Engineers Recommend 21-foot Channel from Lake Michigan

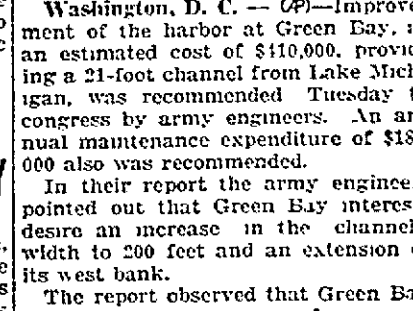

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — Improvement of the harbor at Green Bay, at an estimated cost of $10,000, providing a 21-foot channel from Lake Michigan, was recommended Tuesday to congress by army engineers. An annual maintenance expenditure of $18,000 also was recommended.

The report observed that Green Bay harbor has a commerce of a magnitude to justify an adequate draft channel.

GIRL DIES OF INJURIES AFTER TRUCK ACCIDENT

Racine — (AP) — Mary Tholen, 9, died Tuesday night as the result of head injuries she received when run down by a truck a few hours previously.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO DEVISE UNITY PROGRAM OF LEVY

Mayor Appoints Group to Study Tax Problems of Combined Interests

Pursuant to his authorization as chairman of the recent state-wide meeting held in Appleton for the discussion of tax problems, Mayor Albert C. Rule on Wednesday announced the appointment of a joint committee of six members whose avowed purpose will be the unification of the tax programs of the Wisconsin Municipalities League, Wisconsin Manufacturers' Association and representative bodies of the state.

More than 100 representatives of the above organizations attended the Appleton meeting and unanimously adopted the resolution authorizing the committee appointments.

This group was selected on a basis of equal representation for the municipalities, chambers of commerce and manufacturers, the mayor pointed out.

When a unified tax program has been prepared and has been approved by the three organizations it is to be presented to the next session of the legislature.

This program, it is believed, will represent the thought and attitude of city administrators, manufacturing industries, trade and commercial organizations of the state.

A detailed copy will be sent to every mayor and secretary of commercial organizations in Wisconsin.

The committee is composed of W. H. Alford, Kenosha, and F. H. Clausen, Horicon, representatives of manufacturers; Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, Milwaukee, and W. E. Trakler, city manager of Janesville, representing the municipalities; J. K. Kline, as a representative of the Green Bay association of commerce, and H. E. Stedman, president of the Sturgeon Bay chamber of commerce, for the business organizations.

Mayor Hoan, it is understood, will be chairman of the committee. No announcement has been made as to when the first meeting will be held but it is considered probable that it will be in the near future.

BUILDERS WOULD LICENSE SELVES

Movement Is Indorsed by Master Builders Association at Meeting

Licensing of contractors was discussed at the weekly meeting of the Master Builders association at Insurance building Tuesday evening. The question of licensing was brought up by R. C. Ferge of Milwaukee, field secretary of the Wisconsin State Master Builders' association. This question is one of many important subjects that will be discussed at the annual state convention at Green Bay, Feb. 10 and 11.

Licensing of contractors will eliminate much of the construction work which goes on under the names of many unscrupulous men who do not employ fair methods of competition and who fail to do their work in a standard manner, it was brought out. The Appleton organization was heartily in favor of indorsing the licensing movement.

Other questions which will be discussed at the convention are overhead expense, code of ethical practices, cost keeping methods, credit information for contractors, day labor construction, bonus system, mechanical lien law, trade associations, open and close shop, apprenticeship in the building industry, accident prevention, business methods in contracting, winter construction, building and loan associations, incomplete plans and specifications.

A representative of the Northern Hemlock association gave a short address on grade marking. This matter also will be brought up at the state convention.

MAY PERMIT 20 MORE BADGERS AT ANNAPOLIS

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS.

Washington, G. C. Twenty more badgers yearly will start on the road to Annapolis in the Navy if Congress follows out the recommendations made to it by Secretary of Navy Wilbur.

At present each of the two Senators and 11 Congressmen from Wisconsin are permitted to name three midshipmen to the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Although the present law authorizes five appointments by each Senator and Representative, current appropriations curtail the appointments to three each, and provision for the third quota is authorized by law is none.

Mr. Wilbur's "earnest" recommendations.

The present limit of appointments, it is explained, will not provide sufficient commissioned personnel for maintenance of the line strength of the navy on a proper basis, even if no appointments are made to the various staff corps from graduates of the academy. The Secretary told the President he was "firmly of the opinion" that it would be a benefit to the country at large, as well as to the navy, to have the appointments on a basis of five to each member of Congress, thus making it possible to discharge those graduates found least qualified to be commissioned officers in the navy should they not be needed for naval duty.

MACHINIST LOSES CASE AGAINST RAILROAD CO.

A jury in municipal court deliberating the case of Jacob Power, a machinist, against the C. and N. W. railroad for alleged loss of tools in transit, found for the defendant Tuesday afternoon. Judge Theodore Berg presided. Mr. Power brought suit for $300 alleging that tools valued at that amount were lost from a case which he checked through from Kenosha two years ago.

OVERHEATED FURNACE CAUSES SLIGHT FIRE

An overheated furnace at 745 W. Prospect st. early Tuesday evening was the only fire reported during 24 hours. Slight damage from smoke was reported.

EXPECT COUNCIL WILL STUDY PLAN TO ENLARGE BODY

City Should Have Larger Representation on County Board, Says Mayor

The possibility of redistricting Appleton by the creation of six new wards, thereby adding 12 more aldermen to the common council so that the city might have six more votes on the county board, will be the important topic for discussion at the council meeting Wednesday night, it is expected.

There are so many angles to the situation that no forecast could possibly be made as to whether the proposal is feasible or whether it could be accomplished within the law. Mayor Albert C. Rule pointed out.

"The crying need of Appleton for a larger representation on the county board of supervisors is self apparent," the mayor said, "but it also must be remembered that a board of 24 aldermen probably would be expensive and cumbersome for a city the size of Appleton."

"I believe that investigation will be started at the Wednesday night meeting to determine if it would not be possible in some manner to provide for the election of more supervisors without increasing the size of the present council."

The salary of an alderman is $300 a year, exclusive of committee work which is paid on a basis of 50 cents an hour, with a minimum of five hours specified. As several members of the council are serving on interlocking committees it is estimated the additional cost would be approximately $5,000 to $6,000 annually.

NOT FAIRLY REPRESENTED When it is considered that Appleton pays the minimum 40 per cent of the taxes of Outagamie county it is unreasonable to believe that it is fairly represented with only six members of the county board of supervisors, it was declared.

On the other hand, it was brought out, the city as it is now is not an additional six votes would prove effective if a clash arose where the interests of county and city were apparently inimical.

The tentative discussion, arising from action taken at a special session of the county board when tax problems were the issue, demonstrated that if the percentage had even 12 votes at that time, it would have had no more effect on the action of the board than the six cast with Appleton. While tax debate was on, records show, two country members voted with four Appleton supervisors while two city members cast their lot with the county group.

The discussion Wednesday night is expected to be informal as no definite course of action has been decided upon but it is believed that the subject will open the way for a more equitable adjustment of relationship in voting strength between county and city.

It was virtually conceded Wednesday that any move to elect more supervisors which would increase the size of the present city council will not be favored.

"A group as large as that," Mayor Rule asserted, "would defeat the varied purposes of tax reduction that Appleton is attempting to follow in so far as direct cost is concerned."

"However, it is a rank injustice that the city must pay a proportionate share of huge sums of money over which the city tax payer and supervisor have neither voice nor jurisdiction."

FATE OF TAX BILL HANGS ON PETITION

of course, revenue legislation cannot originate in the senate.

Thus a small group of leaders can prevent tax legislation of any kind. If they have the support of public opinion they will not change their course. The Democrats think public opinion favors a change, particularly in automobile, amusement and corporation taxes as well as rates on small incomes. If the matter ever came to a vote each member of congress would be in the position of deciding the question himself. The leaders foresaw such embarrassment and decided to kill tax proposals in committee. The petition which is to be circulated will be sent to every member of the house and a negative vote will be recorded just as effectively as if the matter were placed before the house of representatives itself.

USE VOTE IN FUTURE Republican aspirants in the primaries of two years hence will have a chance to use the negative vote of present incumbents on the stump. Telegrams from business institutions and individuals back home may possibly affect the decision of members who are literally puzzled as to how to vote.

The Democrats figure it out that even if the petition does not get a majority they will have caused enough trouble to individual Republicans, so that political advantages may accrue to their party. The charge of the minority is that the Republicans know tax revision is possible but merely wish to postpone it till early in 1928, it will come closer to the fall campaign.

The awkwardness of the situation is illustrated by the fact that the president has in his message asked for passage of a tax credit proposal and his party is in the position at the moment of denying that request. This contention, however, is answered by republican leaders who say Mr. Coolidge urged that tax idea half-heartedly and that he said he would be satisfied with the decision of members of congress.

SAYS SCHOLARSHIP CAN THRIVE ONLY IN COMMERCIAL AGE

Dean Shailer Mathews of University of Chicago Addresses Phi Beta Kappa

"Scholarship can thrive only in a commercial age," Dean Shailer Mathews of the Divinity school of the University of Chicago said in a lecture on The Scholar in a Commercial Age at Lawrence conservatory Monday evening. The address was the chief event in the celebration of the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, in honor of the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the organization.

Dean Mathews preferred to live in a commercial age rather than a less material one, he stated, because it is only then through prosperity, wealth and comfort that people can turn their attention to scholarship or even to support it. The world's greatest discoveries have been brought out of periods of prosperity, the speaker continued. He had no quarrel with the commercial side of life, he said.

By scholarship, Dean Mathews meant culture in the sense of appreciation of the past, rather than mere research. The true scholar is not a seeker after narrow research, he said. Culture is broad and scholarship is broad, the lecturer concluded.

Town and college members of the fraternity entertained Dean Mathews at dinner at the Conway hotel prior to the lecture. Prof. Louis C. Baker presided at the dinner in the absence of the president of the chapter, Prof. W. E. McPheeters, who was ill. Speakers at the banquet were: Prof. A. H. Weston on The Founding of Phi Beta Kappa; Prof. C. Lyman on A History of the Lawrence Chapter; and President Henry M. Weston on The Future of Phi Beta Kappa.

Other guests of honor at the banquet were members of the senior class recently elected to membership in the fraternity: A. Lawrence Bennett of Wisconsin Rapids, Donald W. Davis of Appleton, Albert E. Peterson of Hermansville, Mich., Miss Nellie Stowe of Menasha, Herbert E. Webster of Plymouth, and Miss Dorothy L. Van Eer of Waupun. Forty-three persons were present at the dinner and about 250 at the lecture.

SAYS MODERN FICTION LEAVES DEPRESSION

Classical literature left a feeling that all is well with the world but modern fiction leaves depression and sadness, Dean Shailer Mathews, of the Divinity school of the University of Chicago said in an address before Lawrence college students at the convocation services Monday morning. Dean Mathews was in Appleton to attend the one hundred fiftieth anniversary celebration of Phi Beta Kappa, fraternity.

Modern writers psychoanalyze their readers and give us a cross section of moral life, the speaker continued. The darker side of life is presented after this mental examination. The old writer who gave his public the impression that virtue was stronger than vice has passed. Dean Mathews particularly recommended the classics for their depiction of life in its better and pleasanter phases.

WRITING EXHIBITS SHOWN TO TEACHERS

Writing demonstrations were given at the meeting of third and fourth grade teachers with the superintendent of schools Tuesday afternoon. Miss Venice Fellows exhibited the economy method of writing for the fourth grade, and Miss Gladys Burns for the fifth grade.

Tall Buildings, Crowded Areas Menace Life, Claim

BY PAUL HARRISON

New York.—The cock-a-doodle-doo idea of civic pride is one of the direct menaces to the lives of workers in American cities.

Every day, millions of dollars are utterly wasted through idleness enforced by congestion.

The danger of death in crowded streets claims a number of victims every week that is equal to a major catastrophe.

"Oh, but these things are inevitable," says Municipal Pride. "We are a great city. We must have tall buildings to be truly metropolitan."

"Applesauce!" responds Henry H. Curran, who made the foregoing criticisms. "Babbitts and Babel Towers are threatening our lives. Like weeds, cities are growing fast and tall. Also like weeds, they are giving no thought to cultivation."

This man Curran, who dares to call the haughty skyscrapers by harsh names, is leading the fight against the skyscraper invasion of New York. He is counsel for the City club, which believes that decentralization is the only solution to an increasingly serious problem. He is a former soldier, once nominee for mayor and ex-commissioner of immigration.

"Probably our most startling argument against building congestion is furnished by this statement from fire headquarters in New York:

SEVEN-DEEP IN STREETS "If, in the uptown theatre and garment sections or in the downtown business district, all the buildings were emptied simultaneously of their usual throngs, the streets would be piled seven-deep with humanity."

"This is not the nightmare of an alarmist," says Curran. "If a hurricane or earthquake did strike New York—even though only enough bricks and windows fell to create a panic—the greatest tragedy in our history would result from the sudden jamming of millions into the streets. Traffic conditions already are intolerable. Streets cannot be widened further; the city cannot afford to build more subways. Anyway, if we attempt to lessen congestion that way, relief is temporary. By the time new subways are completed, they are lined with new skyscrapers."

"These same conditions are true, to a somewhat lesser extent, in almost all our major cities today."

Already there are more than 2,000,000 people who travel in and out of Manhattan every day in addition to the throngs that live on the island. By the end of 1926 plans will have been filed for nearly 100 new factory and office buildings of skyscraper proportions. These will be occupied by 150,000 new people—enough to fill 150 ten-car subway trains.

"Three persons are killed every day by motor vehicles in New York," says Curran. "This is double the death rate of five years ago, but still it increases. And one of these three dead is a child of less than 15 years. Where children lack parks, they play an exciting game of hide-and-seek with motor trucks—and too often the trucks win. This is municipal murder—and we allow it to go on."

"There are plenty of economic disadvantages to this concentration. Less of time from congestion is almost incalculable; motor trucks have hours of enforced idleness every day. The skyscraper itself is not a good investment. Above the first two or three stories no more rent is realized than is necessary to pay the interest."

The answer to the skyscraper problem is decentralization, says Curran. That will mean smaller buildings and more space, room for motor cars and pedestrians to move quickly and safely. American cities must learn to grow horizontally. If they must have tall buildings, space should be provided around them that is equal in area to the room that would be taken up if the buildings were laid on their sides.

SAME PROBLEM IN CHICAGO "Chicago, with its small loop district, faces the same problem as does New York—the attempt to multiply many-fold the area of business districts," he pointed out. "Other cities, however, are bothered needlessly because of a mistaken municipal pride and inter-city rivalry. For instance, Detroit is to have an 81-story building—the highest in the world."

"Modern buildings, in the main, are ugly as sin. They are square, uninteresting blocks looking like up-ended trunks in a baggage room. A building ordinarily should be no higher than the street on which it faces. If it does go higher, it should have on additional equivalent of open space around its base."

"Strict zoning laws are the only way out. We do not object to skyscrapers simply because they are high, but because they mean congested traffic and consequent accidents, unhealthful crowding, lack of light, and air, downright ugliness and loss of time. Correct those faults and you may build a mile high if you like."

ANDREWS IS WAGING SUCCESSFUL FIGHT AGAINST BOOZE SALE

Nation's Dry Law Enforcement Head Stops Rum Runner Activities

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Brer Andrews, he don't say nothin'. He just lay low. You may have missed the customary balldoon this year about what the prohibition enforcers were going to do to make the holidays bone dry. It used to be a good annual story for all the newspapers.

The fact is that General Lincoln C. Andrews and his subordinates will eat their Christmas dinners serenely confident that a while there may be much liquor available, hardly any of it is fit to drink.

Here are the figures: Not more than five or six rum ships off the north Atlantic coast this year.

Probably 60 at this time last year. More than 200 years ago.

More than 350 three years ago.

Thus, smuggling has been cut to a minimum in the New York sector once a great alcoholic sluceway. The Florida coastline now is the principal objective of the rum-runner and it generally is achieved, as it is poorly guarded. Any rum-runner who would not prefer to operate off these sunny shores, with the approach of winter, rather than those of the north Atlantic, doubtless is stupid enough to be very easily caught, anyway.

WAS DISCOURAGED

For a time the assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition was badly discouraged. He seemed to be on the verge of resigning every Friday for three weeks.

But lately those at the treasury have noticed that his seeming pessimism has changed to a pronounced optimism.

The latest "dope" is that Andrews will resign on April 1, after two years in office. Afterward, he is expected to write the story of his big job, and his final judgment of prohibition after two years of enforcing it will be awaited with considerable interest.

Few ever have thought that Andrews was happy in his enforcing job. Before he took it, he never was any boson pal of Wayne B. Wheeler or William H. Anderson. There is no evidence that he believes in the law he is trying to enforce any more than to believe that all laws should be enforced.

His salary is $7500 a year. He doubtless could earn $50,000 a year in civil life. Andrews set out in the beginning to take prohibition out of politics. But senators had congressmen still wear a path to his office, seeking appointments and other favors for their men.

DRAMATIC CLUB TO PRESENT PROGRAM

Parents Invited to Meeting at Wilson Junior High School on Thursday

Christmas music, a dialogue, play and a solo dance will be presented by the Dramatic club of the Wilson Junior High school at the school Thursday afternoon. Letters were sent to parents asking them and their friends to come to the program. Miss Elsa Dreitenbach, faculty sponsor of the club has directed the work.

"The Ride to Christmas Program" is the title of a dialogue to be given by Miss Leone Tesch as Mr. Johnson, and Miss Elva Heller as Mrs. Johnson. A play, "Santa's Busy Day" will have a cast of the following students: Miss Janice Reese, Santa Claus; Miss Janet Murphy, Mrs. Santa; Miss Dorothy Ehlike, Miss Truxy; Miss Alice Cade, Miss Nixy; Miss Harriet Tracy, Miss Paxy; Miss Audrey Teider, Zero, the doorkeeper; Miss Mildred Knuckeburg, Ajax, the driver; Miss Marjorie Feavel, the stable boy; Miss Gladys Thomack, Jack Frost; Miss Marcella Jabberman, Miss Periwinkle, representative of charities; Miss Lulu Locksmith, Prof. Fushbottum, who doubts the story of Santa; Miss Ruth Harris, Peter Porcum, the greedy boy; and other students represent fairies and toy makers.

Miss Natalie Colle will dance. A cantata, "The Christmas Spirit" will be led by Miss Patricia Kramer and Miss Alva Kraus. Other characters will be selfish rich girls, the Misses Louisa Krueger, Elva Heller, Janet Murphy, Helen Nelson, and Lila Radtke; Wishbone, Miss Ruth Harris; Dominic, Miss Leone Tesch; Becky, Miss Mary Coates; Walf, Miss Mabel Daelke; Fairy Queen, Lucille Joram; Princess Fairy, Miss Marcella Damm, King of Toys, Miss Janet Reese; Walfs, fairies and imps.

BAD BUSINESS IS CONDITION OF MIND

combative to other cities. Mr. Tobias cited the immense volume of business done annually by the chain store and mail order houses.

Mining words was not his forte Tuesday night and it was strongly felt that the chain and mail order store are logically the most undesirable form of competition to strictly locally owned and controlled business.

The house to house canvasser was flayed for his share in taking money from the city not a dollar of which is ever returned.

MIST EDUCATE PUBLIC

"By educating the public through the medium of the press that if Appleton is a good town to live in, to earn money in and to pay taxes in, it also is a good town to spend your money in something tangible in dollars and cents is bound to result," he said.

"Your chamber of commerce should be for everyone—the professional man's interest in the development of his city should be just as great and cooperative as that of the retailer, wholesaler or manufacturer.

"Establish a credit bureau service that will function from the moment a newcomer arrives in the city; establish communication with similar bureaus elsewhere and help to reduce the gigantic losses brought about by bad credit every year.

"Fourteen billions of dollars annually are wasted in the United States—a dead loss, most of it encompassed in bad credits and economic failures."

Mr. Tobias cited cities where ordinance requires that draymen and furniture movers report immediately to the police department when a family changes residences. In countless instances, he said, this has worked out to the inestimable advantage of the business man who thus informed in time to collect bills which might have otherwise gone into the dead debt ledger.

COUNCIL BLOCKED EFFORTS

Hugh C. Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce, explained that three efforts have been made to get the city council to pass an ordinance as outlined. The only excuse offered by the councilmen as to why they did not favor such legislation was said to be "because the council doesn't want to go into the collection business."

However, it was brought out, considerable cooperation is extended by trucking firms and many accounts traced on their reports.

Mr. Corbett also told how recently the chamber has been sending out a form letter to all arrivals asking them to designate their business, church and fraternal affiliations so that they may become sooner absorbed into the community life of the city.

During the course of his speech and while informal discussion was in progress Mr. Tobias took exception to a prophecy by Balson that there will be a panic next year.

"We will not see another panic during our lifetimes—the mountainous cycle of commercialism is being planned down so that several business can progress from year to year without the startling contrast of periodical hard times."

STRENGTHEN CREDIT SYSTEM

Although not taking a particularly decided stand against the practice of deferred payment plan buying, the speaker, nevertheless, condemned it in so far as expressing the opinion that he believes a point of saturation in credit may be attained unless merchandisers strengthen the weak points in the existing lax credit manipulations.

Declaring his topic to be Optimism in Business, Mr. Tobias remained on the fact that preparedness for transportation should be taken under consideration by Appleton. That freight and passengers will be moving from coast to coast by airplanes during 1927 is sufficient reason, he said, why Appleton should consider the building of an airport in the near future in order that she may tap this new trade artery.

The general tendency of factories to move from the congested districts into the smaller cities and communities, more adaptable to industrialism was pointed out as an added incentive for business men to amalgamate their universal interests in creating a trade center.

In touching casually on the labor question Mr. Tobias asserted that the laboring man, skilled and unskilled, has been taught to accept bettered living conditions to a degree that nothing will move the masses into a backward step toward the status existing before the war.

SETTLE STRIKE BEFOREHAND

"The time to settle the strike is before there is any strike—as the employer and the worker are going to sit at the table and discuss their problems after the trouble anyway, they might as well do it before that trouble arises," the speaker averred.

The probability of Mr. Tobias being the recipient of any flattering offers to sell golfing supplies or club stock seemed remote after he expressed unqualified disapproval of business men who can find time to walk 10 miles a day "after a hot ball," but who probably would refuse pointblank to walk 10 miles any day "after a little new business."

An example was drawn in theory whereby a business man might find it exceedingly profitable to select a different road each day and travel into the environs of Appleton preaching the gospel of buy at home.

Cinching his arguments about the impossibility of stringent tariff it was cited that today there is 50 billions of dollars in the banks of the United States, more than 20 billions of foreign securities is owned in this country; the six index banks alone show deposits of 24 billions and that workers in

CLOTHE WORK IN BEAUTY, ADVISE

Milwaukee Pastor Illustrates Difference in Ways of Living

"No matter what your duty in life, clothe your work in beauty and strive to talk and do things in a beautiful manner," said the Rev. Charles H. Beale, of Milwaukee, former pastor of the Grand Avenue Congregational church for 25 years, in an address at the Rotary club meeting Tuesday night at Hotel Northern. He recently retired from active service and is serving at present as a temporary pastor at First Congregational church at Oaklawn.

Dr. Beale showed that in all life the highest types are those that were beautiful. He emphasized the fact that the American public in general is too abrupt in speech. He said that every individual should try to talk in a beautiful manner. There are two ways of saying everything, a beautiful and an ugly way, he said, and he gave illustrations of how both could be used.

He named the Kohler plant as an example of what could be accomplished if beauty was stressed. manufacturing plants own more than $15,000,000 worth of stock in their employing industries.

ADVERTISING AND PROSPERITY

"Advertising creates the motive power to keep the wheel of prosperity turning which brings about a condition where 67 per cent of the persons driving automobiles are doing so on less than $40 a week average income," it was stated.

Interesting statistics were quoted to prove the rapid rise of several industries. This is especially true of radio which has leaped to third place in the nation's business importance in six years.

Industry ranks as follows: Automobile, first; steel, second; beauty parlors, cosmetics, perfumes and toilet accessories, fourth, and the motion picture, fifth.

In the latter industry alone $67,000,000 is spent annually on advertising, accounting almost solely for the possibility of tremendous earnings in every branch of the industry, it was stated.

Several other instances where the life of any given business hinges directly on advertising were cited. That half of the people of the world are merely wandering—not going anywhere—was claimed by the guest who metaphorically suggested that not many business men are "just wandering" but actually going any place in a commercial sense.

The remedy suggested—the crux of Mr. Tobias' talk was in the underlying spirit of the meeting—boost your city and built it up.

As incidental sidelights accompanying his verbal shafts Mr. Tobias ex-

MISSIONARY SOCIETY COLLECTS MANY GIFTS

A Christmas contribution of $55 for the retired deaconesses and a Christmas box of gifts valued at $60 was collected at the meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society of First Methodist church at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The box of Christmas gifts was sent to the Sager-Brown colored orphanage at Baldwin, La., Wednesday morning. Four children, Arthur Hemeny, Robert De Long, Kenneth White and Norma Crow, dressed and colored to represent orphans in the home at Baldwin, recited poetry and then collected the gifts.

"The Mountain Whites" was the title of a story read by Mrs. Everett Hall. "O Holy Night" by Adolphe, was sung by Mrs. W. F. Mitchell. Violin obligato was played by Miss Roberta Lanouette and Carl Engler. Mrs. A. W. Markman, who was chairman of the hostesses was assisted by Mrs. A. B. Fisher, Mrs. R. J. Manser, Mrs. William Falatic, Mrs. W. Rowell, Mrs. Jennie Bateman, Mrs. O. P. Schlafer, Mrs. W. F. Schlafer, Mrs. Carl Stansbury, Mrs. John Denyes, Mrs. Emma Dutcher and Miss Mabel Wolter.

PLAN ADVENT SERVICES

A special advent service will be held at 7:45 Wednesday evening at Mt. Olive Lutheran church. The sermon topic will be The Last Gospel.

The weekly advent service will be held at 7:45 Thursday evening at St. Matthew church. The Rev. Ph. A. C. Froehle will deliver the sermon. The topic will be I Wait for the Lord.

plained that there are five underlying causes for failures in business. The primary cause was said to be poor location, secondary, lack of capital and then carelessness in accepting modern business methods, poor accounting and overbuying and underselling.

Smaller profits and quicker turnover of stock have made the chain store a success but every business man in Appleton can emulate the theory and practice it to a more or less successful degree in his business, it was declared.

Wilbur W. Johnson, secretary of the Advertising club, presided and introduced the speaker. At the close of the address Mr. Tobias requested that he be questioned on any industrial problems of interest to the gathering and a considerable round table informality followed.

Although reservations had been made for more than 50 men and women, weather conditions were such that only about 40 found it possible to attend. The small attendance, however, had no dampening effect on the interest evinced by those who were able to attend.

COUNCIL ADOPTS SAME TAX LEVY OF $951,556.00

Aldermen Rescind Action to Reconsider Action on Levy Tuesday Night

The city tax levy of $951,556.00 for all purposes, adopted by the common council Nov. 22 and reconsidered at the next regular meeting early this month, will remain at that figure.

The action to reconsider the levy was rescinded at an adjourned meeting Tuesday evening by a unanimous vote. The rescinding resolution was introduced by Alderman George Richard, who also had introduced the resolution to reconsider.

His resolution reads: "Resolved: That the resolution adopted at this meeting providing for a reconsideration of the tax levy be and hereby is rescinded."

The resolution reads "this meeting" because the meeting Tuesday evening was an adjourned meeting of the one called on Wednesday, Dec. 1.

When the council, called as a committee of the whole, rose to report, Alderman Richard informed Alderman L. F. McGuffin, chairman of the committee, that the body had nothing to report. He then introduced the above mentioned resolution.

The city's new apportionment of the county-state tax, fixed by the county board of supervisors last week at a special meeting which resulted from Appleton's allegations that the first levy was illegal, was certified to E. I. Williams, city clerk, by John E. Hant-schel, county clerk, Tuesday morning.

It showed a reduction of $694.54 under the former figure, the new apportionment totaling $345,678.99. The former total was $346,373.44.

The new levy increases the county tax from $42,147.77 to $148,886.15, more than $100,000. This difference was equalized by eliminating the $12,236.46 from the county-town aid, by reducing the second issue of the $272,000 bond issue from $24,136.56 to $689.44, and by fixing a 2-mill tax at $225,613.77. In the first levy the special, highway tax and 2-mill tax totaled $162,153.31.

TALISMAN SPONSORS PLAY HOSTESS ROLE

Miss Ethel Nesthus and Miss Ruth Saecker, faculty sponsors of the Talisman, Appleton high school weekly paper, entertained the staff of the paper at Miss Saecker's home, N. Union-st. Tuesday evening. Informal stunts and games were arranged and the evening's entertainment closed with dancing.

Prizes for the stunts were awarded to Charles Preunboom for the best, Donald Mc Math, for the second, and Kenneth Laird received the "booby" prize. Thirty guests were present.

Charitable and penal institutions, $5,552.93; state special charges, $7,289.08; first $272,000 road bond issue, $34,136.56; $180,000 road bond issue, $2,756.06; $100,000 road bond issue, $1,045.83; mothers' pension, $12,550.26; old age pension, $3,736.68; county school tax, $25,108.00.

A reassessment of $27,807.68 was added to the new levy.

Although nothing was said in the council chambers Tuesday evening about the impending controversy between the city and county over the tax situation, it is believed that Appleton will carry out its former threat to bring suit against Ousagamie-co.

The notice served on the county clerk which resulted in the special meeting of the county board indicated that such procedure would be followed by the city provided alleged illegal levies were corrected. Whether the county board has lawfully corrected these alleged irregularities will now be determined, it is believed.

SEVERE COLD ABATES SOME AROUND NOON

The second day of the severe cold wave in Appleton Wednesday found the temperature lower in the morning than Tuesday morning, but higher at noon than the noon of the second day. The mercury dropped to 29 below early Wednesday morning where it had been about 14 Tuesday morning. By noon it rose 15 notches to 5 degrees, while Tuesday noon it stood at 10 below.

Continued cold is forecast for tonight and tomorrow. The forecast is generally fair Wednesday evening and Thursday, continued cold Wednesday night, not so cold Thursday in extreme southern portion.

STATE COMMISSION HEAD WAGES FIGHT ON ADULTERATIONS

Declares Some Unfit Materials Used in Manufacture of Frozen Food

Madison—(AP)—Although volume of business and quality go hand in hand in the ice cream industry, unfit materials are occasionally used in the manufacturing of the product, according to a report of Harry Klueter, state dairy and food commissioner, who cites examples of the adulteration.

"Cheap and adulterated flavoring compounds," he said, "rancid nut meats, inferior fruits, the fraudulent use of artificial color, the emulsification of the product by the use of returned creamers producing chocolate ice cream, are among the important things to be avoided and not sanctioned in the industry if quality is to be an important factor in the expansion of your business. A careful study of the volume of business in the sale of ice cream I am sure would show a direct relation to the subject of quality. This is true with individuals, but it is likewise true in connection with the industry as a whole.

"You may ask what, if anything, is being done by the state in the matter of increasing the production of higher quality dairy products. In this connection it is to be remembered that a law can be successfully enforced just so far as public opinion will support its enforcement. Public opinion will support prosecution for the sale of milk or cream containing poisonous chemical preservatives, milk or cream that has been adulterated by watering or skimming, milk or cream that is produced under filthy conditions, or milk and cream that has been made unsafe for use because of contamination with filthy substances or because of having been handled by some one affected with a communicable disease, and it is no longer difficult to control these forms of adulteration or contamination.

"It is the bringing about of methods of production and distribution of dairy products which effect quality by high acidity, off flavors and the like that is the real problem confronting us today. The production of higher quality dairy products will, in my opinion, result from a campaign of education, a reward in the way of compensation for the production of such products. The dairy and food department has for years worked, with its limited force toward raising the standard of milk and cream by educational work along the lines of production.

"Inspectors of the department in enforcing the provisions of the law pertaining to the production of dairy products urged dairymen to keep barns clean, well ventilated, well lighted and free from dust, recommended the whitewashing of barns at least once a year, and urged the keeping of dairy cattle in a barn by themselves. They also pointed out the danger of odor from horse stables, filthy calf pens and hog pens, worked for the installation of suitable barn floors, recommending concrete, taught the value of the use of sufficient bedding in cow barns, pointed out the necessity of keeping out of dairy barns persons affected with typhoid, diphtheria, septic sore throat or other contagious diseases, urged the use of only clean, sound proper food for dairy cattle and the use of the covered milk pail and many other subjects of educational value. However, it will take the combined efforts of food officials and purchasers of dairy products to raise the standard of quality above that which does not permit condemnation of the product as adulterated under the present laws."

Appleton Newsboys Know "Their Stuff" Perfectly

"Got change for a nickel, Bud?"
"Nope."
"Hey, Fat! Got change for a nickel?"
"Naw."
"Say, mister, wait a minute, n' I'll run in here and get it changed."
"Oh, that's all right, son. Keep the change. I can't wait for two cents."
And so on, day after day, Appleton newsboys fail to have enough pennies to make change. The astuteness of young newsboys is not confined to larger cities; in the vernacular the local boys also "know their stuff." On the corner in front of an Appleton hotel, any afternoon, Appleton newsboys start their daily sale. And strange though it may seem, no matter how many pennies they get for papers, they never have enough change for a nickel. The dime is offered for a paper they will manage to find a nickel in change, but the pennies are always shy. And the penny shortage is always noticeable among all the newsboys. But once in a while if a backward glance were cast, one would catch a mischievous grin.

Honors for high scholarship were awarded to seven students at McKinley junior high school at the close of the second six weeks term, according to an announcement made from the office of the school. Nine students were given special recognition for showing general improvement in their work. Cards were sent to parents of these honor students congratulating them on the work of their children.

Those of the ninth grade who received high scholarship mention were Delmont Bradford and Miss Doris Koehnke; eighth grade, Miss Alice Cavert, Miss Bernice Coon and Miss Adeline Grieshaber; and seventh grade, Miss Adeline Klause and Miss Betty Kettler.

Students awarded for general improvement were: ninth grade, Miss Evelyn Grasse, Miss Ellen Koehnke and Miss Anna Kusler; eighth grade, Miss Ruth Cole, Miss Shelia Davichon, and Miss Virginia Knuth; seventh grade, Miss Alice Harold, Edwin Harold, and Melvin Knabenbauer.

SERVICE COMMITTEE OF HI-Y CLUB BUSY

Reports of a service committee of the Hi-Y club on a survey conducted among students and teachers of Appleton high school, will be read at the regular meeting of the Hi-Y club Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The committee interviewed teachers and some of the students to get their opinions as to ways in which they thought the Hi-Y club could help the school. After the committee report has been read, the club will discuss its findings.

Plans for the alumni banquet which will be held during Christmas week also will be made. Alumni will be guests of the club at a reunion. Merle Zuehlke, club secretary, will report on the results of a questionnaire answered by club members last week. From the report the boys will choose questions in the examination they desire to discuss during the coming year.

FACULTY COMMITTEE OUTLINES NEW WORK

The faculty committee on tests and examinations at Appleton high school met Monday afternoon with Miss Blanche McCarthy, chairman, to make plans for the professional faculty meeting Jan. 4 when a program will be presented to all teachers.

Tests and examinations, with emphasis on newer types, will be discussed in separate sections. The first three meetings were given over to the topics, Marks and the Grading System and Directed Study. Teachers have been asked to submit subjects they would be interested in having on the program for the second semester. The topics will be announced from the office when the list has been selected.

More than 2,000,000 pounds of copper were required to mint $5,115,675 worth of one-cent and five-cent pieces which the United States treasury turned out during the last year.

REHEARSAL CALLED FOR LARGE GROUP SINGING "MESSIAH"

Chorus of 170 to Take Part in Presentation at Chapel Sunday

Several rehearsals of Schola Cantorum will be held this week before the presentation of Handel's "Messiah" at Law... Memorial chapel Sunday evening under auspices of the conservatory of music. A chorus of 170 voices will sing in the great cantata, and the conservatory orchestra of 20 pieces will accompany under the direction of Prof. Percy Fullinwider. Dean Carl J. Waterman of the conservatory, in charge of the solo and solo work, will sing the tenor solo parts of the "Messiah."

"The chorus this year will be better than in other years when the 'Messiah' has been given here," the director said. "The voices and tonal qualities are superior."

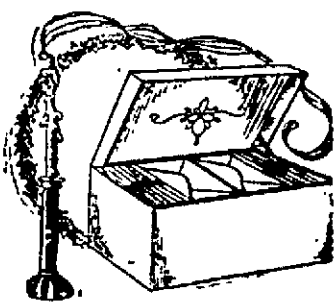

Some of the outstanding chorus numbers in the cantata are, "For Unto Us a Child Is Born," "And the Glory," "Behold the Lamb of God," "All We Like Sheep," "Lift Up Your Heads," and "Hallelujah." The first great climax of the work comes with the famous chorus, "For Unto Us a Child Is Born." This is one of the best known of the Handel choruses. "And the Glory" is the opening chorus of the oratorio. "The solemn awe" called forth by the contemplation of the sinless lamb of God and His foreshadowed sacrifice on the Cross, to expiate the sin of the world" is suggested in the third great chorus. "The period of self condemnation," "All We Like Sheep" is the response. "The singers, after contemplating the suffering the Holy One has undergone on their behalf feel like the prophet of old, who cried out in an agony of spirit, 'Woe is me, for I am a sinful man.' Their souls are stirred to the quick and they cry out loudly that they have erred and strayed like lost sheep."

"Lift Up Your Heads" is a contrast to the other choruses of the work in its question and response by the tenors and basses answered by the sopranos and chorists. The "Hallelujah" chorus probably contains more of the true Handel spirit as it is understood in its majesty and power than any other part of the oratorio.

STATE TAX POLICY

The recent tax meeting held in Appleton was worth holding alone for the speech on taxation by Mayor Daniel Hoan of Milwaukee. Mr. Hoan gave one of the clearest and most forcible expositions of the fallacies in Wisconsin's tax system yet made. Tracing the theory on which taxation is levied under representative government, he brought out the fact that the policy in this state has been entirely away from that principle. Gradually, step by step, the legislature has appropriated revenues properly belonging to local taxing units, cities and towns, until day it is wholly supported by them and has no direct tax contact with the people.

The constitution of Wisconsin was framed to provide for the levying of direct taxes for the expenses of the government, for it says: "The legislature shall provide for an annual tax sufficient to defray the estimated expense of the state each year." The methods now employed were unknown in those days, and the purpose was clear that state expenditures were to be defrayed by an annual tax levy. This provision of the constitution is now completely ignored. So long as the people were subjected to a specific tax each year for the support of state government they had a vital interest in how the money was used and in the aggregate expenditures, because they were immediately reflected in taxes. But our politicians found a way to get around this, realizing that if they could secure revenues for state purposes indirectly the people would lose their interest in government economy and they could squander the funds to suit themselves, in the form of favors, perquisites and the building up of a political machine.

The first step toward this end was, as Mr. Hoan pointed out, to have the state take over all the railroad taxation, except a small terminal tax. Next they took away from the local treasuries the freight line and express taxation, then they stole from the local governments their share of telegraph and telephone taxation, then insurance taxation and inheritance taxation and income derived from the conservation laws. Automobile license fees were next gobbled up for the state treasury, and the last legislature, bent on out-doing all predecessors, took the bulk of the new gasoline tax for state purposes and increased the state's share of income taxes from thirty to fifty per cent. Whereupon, these adroit politicians wave their hands with glee, shouting "there are no longer any state taxes!" The people are told they do not have to pay any tax into the state treasury, the inference being that this is a saving to them.

Now, in plain truth, as Mr. Hoan showed, it is robbery and not relief. Instead of saving taxpayers money it has saddled on to them excessive local taxation by depriving the local taxing units of sources of revenue that legitimately and fairly belong to them. All, or the bulk, of the revenues now absorbed by the state formerly went into city and county treasuries. By draining them of this revenue the state has been able to engage in a riot of extravagance and spending without apparent effect upon the people and seemingly without costing them a dollar. It was a clever scheme and it has worked beautifully. But the people in time will get on to the fact that they have been cheated and robbed and that the devices now employed to finance state expenditures in Wisconsin are a monumental fraud that is costing them millions upon millions of dollars every year in burdensome taxes.

The politicians responsible for this fraud now have the effrontery to tell the people that their high taxes are due to local expenditures, and that they should look to the local government bodies to reduce them. If the local taxing units had the revenues from railroads and other public utilities, from estates, automobiles, etc., that properly belong to them, local taxes today in every city and county would be from $5.00 to $10.00 a thousand less. There would be all the difference in the world in local taxes. The state would then have to come out in the open and tax the people for its requirements, and there would be an altogether different story to tell about state expenditures. The people would insist on economy, because that would mean low taxes. Today they do not care what the state spends, for they say in effect that the railroads, utilities, corporations, etc., are footing the bill, whereas in reality, they are not only paying the bill themselves but a liberal premium in addition for both extravagance and the loss of local revenue that would greatly reduce local taxes. Nowhere in the Union have the people been hoodwinked by political fakery as in the tax policies of this glorious state of Wisconsin. It is the most brazen steal on record and all the time it has been going on the taxpayers, who have been robbed, have been led to believe they were being favored.

ANOTHER ACCOMPLISHMENT

Following a week's negotiations during the sitting of the council of the League of Nations at Geneva, an agreement has been reached between Germany and the allies under which allied military control of German disarmament will cease January 31st, and on the following day it will be taken over by the League of Nations. Thus is terminated one of the principal sources of irritation between the former warring nations, fruitful of constant trouble and misunderstanding. Agreement is altogether on the side of reason and justice. While on the surface it is a victory for Foreign Minister Stresemann, it is in reality a greater achievement for Aristide Briand, for it marks a further triumph of his policy of conciliation toward Germany over the unyielding methods advocated by Foincare. Under the policies of the latter France was to be isolated, both politically and in the sympathies of the world. Briand's diplomacy will regain much of the lost ground and must inevitably place France in a better light.

The agreement is another League of Nations accomplishment, for it was the League in the background which made it possible and under whose helpful influence it was consummated. Moreover, it is the League which will in the future administer the disarmament phase of the Versailles treaty. In this connection we should keep in mind that the agreement carries greater significance than may be at first indicated, because of the fact that Germany is now a member of the League council and nothing can be done without her consent.

Gradually there has been an amelioration of the peace treaty and it will continue under the tendencies and conditions now existing. Eventually a basis should be worked out under which Germany and the allies, and particularly France, may resume relations of confidence, friendship and accord. If progress is made toward this end the excuse for French militarism will recede and it will be up to her to reduce her military establishment and promote general disarmament.

OUT OF LIFE

Not mine to do the brilliant deed,
Nor mine to come to fame,
But mine to fill some humbler need
Till lasting love to claim.

What matters it that fame goes by
And fails to notice me?
The twinkle in my baby's eye
Is still a joy to see.

Could richer friends be truer than
The ones along my street?
And could I be a happier man
If monarchs I should meet?

What though I keep a humble post
Where praise is little known,
I've made a splendor I can boast
Which greatness may not own.

I've friends to share my fire at night
Good neighbors dwelling near,
I rather many a sweet delight
Throughout the passing year.

I walk the woods and wade the streams,
Love birds and flowers and trees,
I have as many golden dreams
As rich men, if you please.

Stripped of the pomp of wealth and fame
This life we live on earth
Gives to us all about the same
Few lasting things of worth.

The Army-Navy game drew such a big crowd at Chicago, it can be revealed now, because the people saw the cadets' guns and thought it was going to be another shooting party.

Five bootleggers, two bandits, two burglars and four auto thieves were arrested in a raid on an Ohio roadhouse. These roadhouses are getting to be quite popular with the idle rich.

A Boston trawler caught a 15-pound sea-eel. This ought to be a boon to the crosswords.

EVERY CHILD SHOULD KNOW THE EARMARKS

A Michigan reader sends in a clipping of a typical itinerant charlatan's advertisement, one of the 1898 vintage, if you can remember the great "specialists" who used to make the circuit of the hick towns. This one, evidently still extant in Michigan, is faithful to the best traditions of his ilk, in that he "will be at the — House for one day only." But he is not quite blind to modern progress in quackery, for he doesn't divulge his own name at all, but, like the big time quack outfits in some dull towns he makes his appeal to the gullibles under the imposing title of "The Federated Specialists," or some such term.

Along with the charlatan's announcement—which appears to have been printed in a newspaper, though it is good enough, as humor, for Horstater's almanac—the Michigan man sends this letter:

"I have a (relative) who had tuberculosis about five years ago and was in the sanatorium at — six months, after which he was pronounced cured and his lungs healed. He went to the doctor in — on October 14 and had an examination. He said he had active tuberculosis but that he could cure it by the use of medicine and the observance of certain rules as to diet, rest, etc. His fee is $10 a month. Many of his rules, especially as to diet, are in direct contrast to those at the — sanatorium, as is also his use of medicine in effecting a cure."

"I also know of another patient whom he examined, telling her she had kidney trouble and offering to cure her in three months for $50. He afterwards reduced the price to $45."

"Personally I think he is a quack who has hoodwinked my (relative), along with many others, out of their money and caused them needless anxiety and worry besides. I would like your clean cut, straight from the shoulder opinion of this doctor and his methods."

1. Reputable physicians or specialists practice always under their own individual names, and never under a firm name, corporation name, company, association, combination, group, or other impersonal title.

2. If a reputable or real specialist or physician does go away from home to treat patients, he never publishes his own greatness nor invites the attention of persons with this or that ailment. If he is as good as he pretends to be he can't get away from home very often.

3. A really competent physician or specialist in tuberculosis would not and could not promise a cure in any case in a definite time, as the rascal in the Michigan man's letter did. Nor could an honest physician give a patient any assurance of a cure of kidney trouble (no matter what the trouble may be) in three months.

4. No good and reliable physician or specialist can ever guarantee a cure in any circumstances. Of course the doctor may feel reasonably sure that his treatment will prove successful in removing a wart or effecting union of the fragments of a broken bone, but God only knows what may intervene to prevent such a consummation, and so, as I say, the honest doctor simply cannot guarantee a cure of anything.

5. Nowadays the title "doctor" is misleading. Formerly it generally signified a physician. Now it is as likely to be assumed by a quack as by a qualified healer. The laws or regulations which purport to govern or control the practice of healing are a great joke on the public. But remember this: You never can tell about the chap who comes along labelled "doctor."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Impossible to Save

In your articles about iodine you insisted it should be tincture of iodine and not tincture of iodine. Are there two different tinctures or is it only that you think the word should be spelled iodine rather than iodine. The only kind of tincture you can buy in the drug store is tincture of iodine (N. W. B.).

Answer.—There is only one tincture of iodine, or iodine if you insist on wasting a letter. I have tried hard to save a little time, space, labor expense, but now you've gone and squandered all I save in a whole year.

Apathy

I am one of these what you call healers, quacks, fakirs or what have you. . . (H. A. H.)

Answer.—Well, I should certainly call you a quack all right, but hardly a fakir. A fakir is a member of a Mohammedan sect, and should not be confused with a fakir. I consider any one who labels himself a "path" of any kind a quack, and that's that.

Blood Purifier

Is yeast a blood purifier? Does it clear one's complexion? S. J. J.)

Answer.—No more nor less than cheese or peanut butter. Sometimes yeast taken as a food seems to relieve obstinate pimples or boils. It has no particular effect on complexion.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 18, 1916

A communication from Max Liebuscher, president of the Milwaukee Skat club had been received by Appleton Skat players requesting a list of local skat enthusiasts of Appleton be sent to him. It was the intention of the players in Milwaukee to organize a club which was to include skat players from every city in the state. At that time there was only one club in Appleton, the Harmonic Skat club.

The new Emanuel church of the Evangelical association, corner of Durkee and Fisk-sts, was completed and was to be dedicated the following Sunday. Bishop Bowman of Chicago was to deliver the dedicatory address.

Officers elected at the annual meeting of the C. O. Bear camp, Spanish American War Veterans the previous night were: Commander, J. F. Hecker; senior vice commander, George Morkel; junior vice commander, Gus Schwandt; adjutant, Richard Sykes; quartermaster, H. Brunko; chaplain, W. H. Zuehlke; officer of the day, E. Berger; officer of the guard, Alfred Meyer; trustees, A. O. Hecht and John Stark.

The residence of Mrs. Mary Johnson, 662 State-st, was damaged by fire the previous afternoon. The fire was caused by an overheated stove pipe. The damage was estimated at about $150.

TEN YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 13, 1916

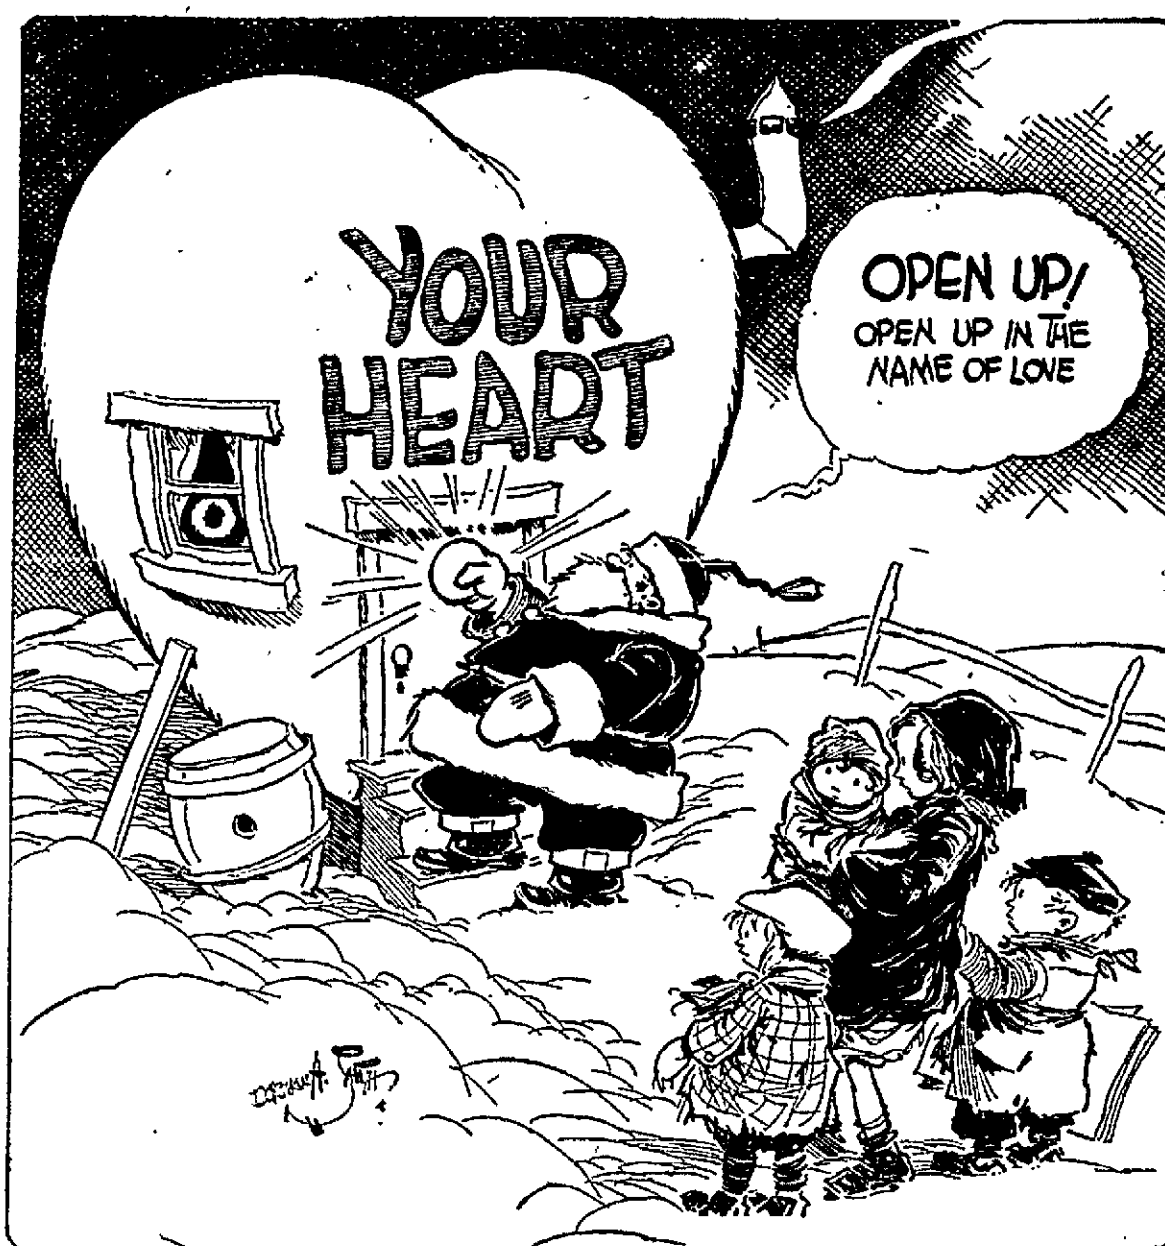

Including the losses of the French battleship "Suffren," the total losses of the hostile fleets during the war had amounted to 192 vessels, the press estimated that day. Germany's total losses in the war up to the end of November were 3,921,559. It was announced. Of that number 316,027 were listed as dead.

Mrs. Adeline Schabo, Story-st, was surprised by about 20 friends the previous evening, the occasion being her birthday anniversary.

Emma Maack entertained a number of friends the previous night at her home on Superior-st.

A local branch of the Child Conservation league of America was organized in Appleton the previous afternoon. Officers elected were: President, Mrs. F. W. B. Grafton; vice president, Mrs. F. E. Koch; secretary, Mrs. James Richmond; treasurer, Mrs. W. J. Arnold; press reporter, Mrs. M. J. Johnson.

HAPPINESS IS KNOCKING

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

AN AMERICAN GALS WORTHY?

Whenever you see the works of Louis Bromfield discussed, you almost sure to see that you are novelist referred to as "the American Galsworthy." It is likely to approach Bromfield for that phrase has probably done Bromfield a disservice. Bromfield is a highly talented young man of about 30 but to invite comparison between his art and the mature art of one of the world's most mature present-day novelists is very dangerous, to say the least.

Anyone who has long loved Galsworthy is likely to approach Bromfield in a critical spirit. It is very natural, inevitable almost, when you have been told again and again that Bromfield is "An American Galsworthy," to think, "If's got to show me!" when picking up a Bromfield book. And in spite of the fact that Bromfield is very much worth while, he is not at all pressing Galsworthy in very hard for literary honor. This is not at all against him, but the insistent comparison between the two by well-meaning friends of the American often makes it work to his disadvantage.

INVITES COMPARISON

It must be confessed that Bromfield himself invites this comparison, at least he seems to do so. This is brought out in a very small matter but small matters are often straws in the wind. All the world knows that Galsworthy's great character is Scemees Forsyte, the principal character in "The Forsyte Saga." That character is known as well as almost any character in literature. Galsworthy and Scemees Forsyte are almost unconsciously bracketed in the mind of the reading public like Ham and Ogees.

Now Scemees is a somewhat uncommon name. It is not like the name John or Henry or Jerry or any other name of that kind which any reader might give to any character. The name Scemees has distinctiveness as well as distinction. Galsworthy has been using it since 1905. "The Man of Prosperity" was published in his latest novel, "Early Autumn," (and a very fine novel it is). Louis Bromfield introduces a character whom he names Mrs. Scemees. It is a family name in "Early Autumn," is a Christian name as in Galsworthy. There is not the remotest similarity between the two characters. Not the faintest reference of course is made to the Galsworthy name. But the name is there.

There would be no significance in this if Bromfield had not persistently been described as "the American Galsworthy." It is conceivable that any other author might have hit on this

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

It Thrives in Country or City

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n. Surely there is no excuse for an American not being well acquainted with the American elm, also called the white elm and water elm. It thrives in city streets as well as in the open country, and we daily come in contact with it in the form of posts, barrels, agricultural implements, ties or ordinary novelties. If you plan to plant, send to me for free planting suggestions.

The elm has beauty, grace and statelyness. Though rich moist bottomlands are its favorite home, it extends from Newfoundland west to the Rocky Mountains, growing under all conditions. Its leaves are simple and alternate, from 4 to 6 inches long; they are thick and unequal based, sharply smooth below; the veins run straight from the midrib to the doubly toothed margins. The flowers appear in small clusters about one inch long. The bark is grayish-brown.

The wood is heavy, hard, though rather durable; in color it is from brown to red with lighter sapwood. The trunk divides gradually a short distance from the ground into two or more stout branches, which curve gracefully upward and outward to form a symmetrical, rounded, wide-spreading top. Where its serious enemies can be controlled the American elm can be used to advantage. It is particularly susceptible to the elm-leaf beetle and the tussock moth. For wide streets and broad avenues it has no superior; to have seen the stately dignity and towering grace of the elms of New Haven, Cambridge, Oberlin or Evanston is to have seen American shade trees at their best.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York. — Out on windswept Riverside Drive, overlooking the Hudson, a little marble urn stands in the shadow of Grant's tomb.

It tells its own story: "Erected to the memory of an amiable child, St. Claire Pollock, died July 15, 1797, in the 5 year of his age."

The monument was placed there by a kindly Irishman, in memory of his son, who was killed in a tumble off the cliff.

One hundred years after the father had placed the urn in a corner of his fair fields, the builders came to construct a tomb for a famous "older" and a former president.

They lie there side by side now, great man and little child. About them the green carpets have been torn up by the marching city. Thousands see Grant's tomb and thousands see the monument of simple love erected to an "amiable child."

Soldier and child share the world's fame alike. Not all the hurrying girls who patter-patter along Park Row are New Yorkers. But a certain newsboy can tell the New Yorkers from the ladies from Topeka, Tomkinsville and way points.

"The subway ventilator shafts blow the skoots," he told me, "and the New York gulls won't walk over the gratings. The others do."

Q. Is lightning a sea peril? O. B. W.

A. A recent article in a marine publication says, "The majority of marine underwriters concur in the judgment that lightning is a sea peril on the basis that a marine policy not only covers fire, such as is likely to result from lightning, but also includes loss or damage from all perils of the sea."

Q. Where do the swans of the eastern part of North America spend their winters? D. S.

A. They concentrate on Chesapeake Bay, Md., Back Bay, Va., and Currituck Sound, N. C., and nearby waters. These birds have become bolder, under the fence-year protection given them. They now number about 15,000.

Q. Where did malted milk originate? C. B.

A. Horlick's malted milk, which has been termed the original, was first made at Racine, Wisconsin.

ORIENTAL STUDENT GROUP WILL UNITE FOR CELEBRATIONS

Holiday Program Arranged as Annual Event; Racine Woman Hostess

Racine—(P)—Hindu and Chinese, Japanese and Korean, Philippine and Russian will join in an unusual Christmas celebration at Taylor hall, Racine, next week. Not only will they jointly observe Christmas but will discuss a variety of subjects relating to conditions among Oriental nations.

In an effort to bring about a better understanding between Oriental students who are in America, and afford them an opportunity for recreation, Mrs. George Biller, director of Taylor hall, has invited representatives of these and other nations to spend their Christmas vacations at Racine.

Such a Christmas was spent by more than thirty Orientals last year. The chief result was the formation of a permanent Oriental Students' conference, which met at Racine in September. Questions of religion, international affairs and similar problems of interest to all of the Oriental countries will be discussed.

The Christmas conference this year will be primarily for informal discussions and recreations, according to Mrs. Biller. At least four great religious bodies will be represented in the group—Christianity, Hinduism, Islam and Sikhism.

Most of the students invited to the conference are doing graduate work in American colleges and universities. Among the institutions which are expected to be present are: Cornell, John Hopkins, University of Wisconsin, University of Chicago, University of Michigan, Northwestern university, Carleton college, DePaul, University of Iowa, Lewis Institute and Lawrence college.

The expense of the students in coming to Racine will be borne largely by Americans interested in bringing about a better understanding between the Oriental nations. Mrs. Biller has been responsible for effecting such an arrangement. She is the widow of the late Mr. George Biller, Episcopal bishop of North Dakota. She has had charge of Taylor hall since its establishment as a national center of devotion and conference by the Episcopal church. The center has developed into a gathering place for groups of many religious faiths.

Officers of the Oriental Students' conference are: chairman, Haridas T. Muzumdar, India; vice chairman, Masatoshi Matsushita, Japan; general director, Mrs. George Biller; executive committee, Gengo Suzuki, Japan; Remigio D. Ronquillo, Philippines; Bhola D. Panth, Indian; Chieh Chen, China; Chao Ting Chi, China; T. Del. Castillo, Philippines; Arthur Gosling, America; Katherine Groesbeck, America.

Fanny Ward Comes Back After Years Of Obscurity
At 60 Actress Has Face And Figure Of Youth

BY VIRGINIA SWAIN
NEW YORK. — The black and white magic of Ponce De Leon's fountain reveals itself.

Now the world may see what happens when a human being drinks its waters.

Fannie Ward is back! The first modern evangel of eternal youth, the official monarch to twentieth century methods of rejuvenation, whose pre-war fame set women a-flutter all over the world with the desire to emulate her beauty—returns to the spotlight after twelve years' private life.

During all that time the world heard very little of Fannie Ward. America whispered about her—that she had died—that she was hiding her famous features from the public because her magic had failed—that Fannie Ward was mortal, after all.

This week she came back—flashed upon the public eye from the footlights of a vaudeville theater—and left her audiences breathless. She is today, at 60 more beautiful than she was twelve years ago.

Sparkling and flower-laden in her dressing room, she seems—as from her red gold waving hair to her delicate, silver-shod feet, a woman in the bloom of her twenties.

And that is white magic. The story of Fannie Ward goes back to 1890, when she first appeared under the management of Daniel Frohman at the Broadway Theater, fresh from the provincial background of St. Louis.

Her brilliant beauty unlocked forbidden doors to her, opened the way to stellar roles in the hits of the nineties. Fannie Ward was the star of "The Little French Milliner," Fannie Ward was the glamorous heroine of "In the Bishop's Carriage."

Later, she followed the vogue for problem plays. "Her Only Way," and "The Price" were among her greatest hits. In Broadway and on Drury Lane, the little Missouri girl fought for honors and won them.

Her beauty was her greatest asset. She had soft dark hair melting gray eyes and the body of a Dresden figurine. The bald-headed rows went mad about her.

And nobody thought it strange when the little actress announced her marriage to Joseph Lewis, one of the richest of the South African diamond potatoes. Such a face as Fannie Ward's might be expected to snare no less than a Kimberley diamond millionaire.

One daughter was born, not long before the Lewis marriage was dissolved in the courts. That daughter is now Lady Dorothy Plunkett of him. He is a chemist by profession, and her right hand man in the cosmetic laboratories she maintains for her beauty shop.

The Ward beauty had become a religion—and nobody was more devout toward it than Fannie herself.

Her entrance into the motion pictures brought one striking change. She turned from brunet to blond, so that the false lights might not sharpen her features too much or betray her years.

It was during her cinema years that she came upon her magic fountain. After retirement of a few weeks, she emerged with the face of a young girl.

Report had it that plastic surgery had done the work. But Fannie declares that no surgeon's knife has ever touched her face. Certainly she bears no scars.

"I have decided to give my discoveries to the world through my beauty shop," she says. "The world needs beauty and youth and I feel myself called to show the way."

"The day of the lavender-and-old lace grandmother is past."

The home of Fannie Ward harbors many jungle animals. The skins of great cats—leopards, tigers, jaguars—cover the floors. The windows are draped in mid-Victorian pink and blue.

Most of Fannie Ward's clothes are pink. When she was a girl of 16, pink was the most girlish color. And so—now that she is 60—she wears it.

Skittish little feet dance about the long mirror, crisscross hose gleam, a gay chinchilla coat goes flying across the room from Fannie's nervous fingers.

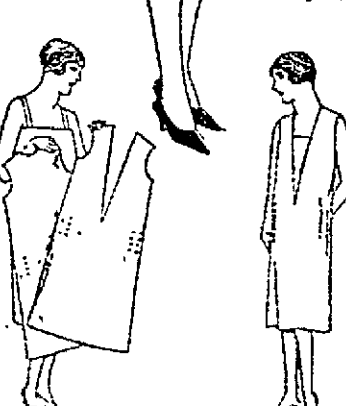

Fannie Ward has dodged age. No comfortable old lace and mignonette sachet can enter her lair—no grandmotherly shoes or shawls or bonnets. "I not only look young," she says, "I AM young. Look at my face."

It smiles with the quick mechanical change of an automaton. It is a face as smooth as if it had been ironed out. And while it smiles the truth flashes on one.

Behind her face, Fannie Ward has grown old. Her face is a mask behind which she hides her years.

And that is magic—with a tinge of gray.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

COURSE there were dolls and toys Go right ahead and look around. There's plenty you can see. If anything goes wrong, just yell, and I'll come running here, pell mell. Now, don't forget, in trouble you can always call for me."

And then a mama celly cried and Clowny rushed up to her side. Said he, "I wonder if it's safe to take it off the shelf?" "Why, sure," said Scouty. "Gee, why not? Perhaps 'twill help the doll a lot. Don't wait for Santa Claus to come, but rock the thing yourself."

Now Clowny was a helpful chap. He took the doll in his lap and started singing lullabies like any mother would. And what a funny sight to see the other Tinnies laughing in glee to see wee Clowny trying to make a crying doll be good...

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

"And I thought," Cherry's high musical voice was saying, "that we ought to try our dresses on and be sure they are just right, then go and have our pictures taken by that wonderful new photographer, Spurlock, tomorrow. Of course the papers will want pictures of all of us—"

"But, Cherry," Selma Pruitt laid her face against clasped hands and looked at Cherry almost worshipfully. "You're the most beautiful thing I ever saw—absolutely! You're like a snow maiden, an ice queen, or, I know, like Queen 'Riala! It's a shame you'll have to hide your marvelous red curls with a veil—"

Cherry revolved slowly before the pier glass, her blazing golden eyes filled with an almost awed delight in her own beauty.

The ivory satin which tradition had dictated as the basis of the gown showed only as a sheen, a shimmer, a background for the intricate engravings of seed pearls, rhinestones and crystals, wrought in fairy delicate embroidery over the entire surface of the dress.

"The veil isn't going to cover much of my hair," Cherry laughed. "Trust little Cherry! See?" She lifted the cloud of veiling—yards and yards of it, from the big box which held it, and with Frances' help, adjusted the tiny cap of priceless rose point lace, which did not in least obscure the glory of her copper-and-gold hair, but enhanced it.

Faith stepped softly into the room and Cherry laughed a little timidly as she raised her apricot-tinted cheek for her sister's kiss. "Don't the girls look keen? I adore you in that golden poppy dress, darling. How do you like Sweet-Pea Selma and Cornflower Frances?"

The two bridesmaids were in dresses made exactly like Faith's. Selma's of pale lavender combined artfully with flesh-colored taffeta, and Frances' of cornflower blue, taffeta, the exact color of the wide, childish eyes under the cloud of her silver blond hair.

"Can I come in now?" Joy's voice came shrilly through the closed door. "Junior says him and Fay's sick and tired of waiting on you. And Mama's mad 'cause you didn't ask her to come in while you dressed!" The last sentence was delivered in a lower key, with portentous solemnity and warning.

"Here comes the bride!" Cherry chanted in answer. "Scot back into the living room, Joy, and tell 'em we're coming."

The shabby little Myrtle Street house must have shaken with surprised delight clear to its foundations as the little procession passed through hall and dining room on the way to the living room. Faith in the lead, Frances and Selma giggling together just behind her, and Cherry, her veil wound loosely over her arm to keep it from trailing in the dust of the old floors, bringing up the rear!

"Oh, gee! Oh, zosh!" Joy breathed ecstatically. "Ain't we got fun?" Faith, the first in the room, nodded and smiled at Fay Allen, a plump, round-cheeked, chestnut-haired, gray-eyed girl who, except for the fact that she sat very close to "Long" Lane on the piano bench, gave no indication of deserving the adjective that the Lane family almost habitually prefixed to her name. "That fast Fay Allen" look singularly childish and nice, in her little belted suit of golden-brown velvet.

In the clamor of exclamations and compliments and questions and half-finished answers that followed, Faith stood to one side, observing the scene rather than taking part in it. Her mother was visibly trembling with pride and happiness, a happiness expressed in a constant trickle of tears down her cheeks, and in embarrassed agreement with everything that Frances and Selma said. Mrs. Lane was patently in awe of these "fine friends" of her adored Cherry, could not quite get used to the idea that they were in her home on a basis of intimacy.

"Dar, you haven't said I look prettier!" You haven't eyes for anyone but Faith, you had, partial old parent. Don't you like your Cherry a tiny bit?" And, with impulsive disregard of her wedding finery, she plumped herself down on his knees.

"I'd rather see you in your shroud than in that dress, to marry the man you've given your word to." Jim Lane's low gruff voice silenced every feminine twitter in the room.

Cherry slipped from her father's lap and backed away to stare at him, as if he had struck her. But his tragic, near-sighted eyes did not meet her blazing gaze. They were fixed on a vision of horror that became real to everyone in the room.

It was Mrs. Lane who broke the ghastly spell of silence. "If that ain't just like you, Jim Lane! Oh, Lord, oh, Lord! Life is just one thing after another! I wish I was dead!"

BREAKFAST—California grapes, cereal, thin cream, baked French toast, syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Ring of salmon with creamed peas, hearts of lettuce with French dressing, Parker House rolls, chocolate marshmallow roll, milk, tea.

DINNER—Broiled hamburger steak, lyonnaise potatoes, creamed cauliflower, onion with bacon dressing, canned strawberries, mock angel food cake, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

If a house guest is expected during the holidays, the "ring of salmon" suggested in the luncheon menu will make an excellent company dish. The housekeeper never wants to spend more time as cook than hostess, but she does want all her meals a little different from the ordinary and dainty served. While one might hesitate to serve plain salmon straight from the can, the ring mold filled with peas is attractive and delicious.

RING OF SALMON

One pint or pound can salmon, 1-2 cups stale bread crumbs, 1-2 cup cream, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, 1-5 teaspoon ground mace, 1 tablespoon lemon juice 3 eggs (whites).

Remove skin and bones from salmon and force through a colander. Add bread crumbs, which should be from the soft part of the loaf, cream, salt, pepper, mace, lemon juice and enough hot water to make moist. Mix thoroughly and fold in the whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a well-buttered ring mold and steam for thirty minutes. Remove from mold and fill center with creamed peas.

Household Hints

TASTY NOVELTY

For a special delicacy, stuff dates with maple nut fudge and roll in sugar and finely chopped nut meats.

BEPREPARED

Before you start a cake or pudding be sure to have all your ingredients, pans and measuring utensils ready, and see to your oven.

DON'T IRON IT

It is better to stretch knitted silk underwear than to iron it if you want to get the greatest possible wear from the garments.

CLEANING PICTURE GLASS

Use alcohol or ammonia water to clean the glass over pictures. Dry carefully, and polish with camels or crumpled paper.

TURPETINE FOR LINEN

The shelves of a linen closet should be cleaned and wiped with turpentine occasionally.

BE CAREFUL OF WOOL

Never rub soap directly on wool, or never press with too hot an iron. Never let wool garments freeze by hanging outside, or do not subject to too great heat as they are drying by the fire.

IF IT'S BLUE, IT'S ART

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

TALKING about Christmas and the amount of rubbish that people pay good money for reminds me of an experience I had a few weeks ago.

I decided to have a couple of prints framed for a young friend away at school, so I hid me to a store which, I think, second to only one in the United States, both in size and the general quality of its merchandise.

The art department, or picture department I should say (for everything in the store from stamped towels to Korean chests was referred to as "art"), was agglitter with a great many gold leaf frames and cut glass mirrors.

A very pleasant woman came to wait on me, not an "extra" taken on for holiday trade but one of the regular force of clerks. I had bought things from her before.

"May I look over your prints of old masters?" I asked. "I'll pick out a couple and let you frame them in some plain molding. I think I'll have the 'Strawberry Girl' for one. It's by Reynolds. And after the other I was thinking of 'Mrs. Siddons.' It's by Reynolds, too, you know. Or the 'Girl's Head' by Greuze."

She looked at me in bewilderment. "I don't think we have them," she said. "But here are a lot we just got in." And she showed me several highly colored and not at all unattractive garden scenes with vivid blue skies and cobalt lakes. And she held up also a Japanese girl and a Neapolitan boy.

When I explained that I wanted copies, or prints, of priceless old masters, to be seen only in European galleries, she understood. "Oh, I know what you mean now," she said, "like the Madonnas and all that! No, we don't keep them. I suppose people won't buy them or else they cost too much."

"They cost only a few cents anywhere in Europe," said I. "And they cost only a few cents here, too, but evidently they are going to be hard to find. But thank you, anyway. I'll look somewhere else."

My words proved to be true. Three large stores failed me. The fourth, a regular picture store, sent away for what I wanted.

We cannot live on dead art, to be sure. It is necessary to keep on producing, but is America going to allow catch-penny color to take the place of the rare genius of the masters?

"Blue Box" by Gainsborough is being exploited merely. I am positively sure, because it is so nice and blue and looks so well in a blue frame.

Women's Oldest

hygienic problem now solved a new and different way—true protection. Dispose of it as easily as tissue.

THE old-time "sanitary pad" is fast becoming a rarity. Millions are discarding it as a needless hazard. "KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment. It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And then stops ALL danger of offending.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

KAUKAUNA - LITTLE CHUTE - KIMBERLY

NEARBY
TOWNSNEW LEVY BOOSTS
COUNTY AND STATE
TAX OVER $1,000

Revamped Figures Will Not Change Tax Rate of City of Kaukauna

Kaukauna — Kaukauna's share of the county-state tax was increased $1,104.40, according to the new tax levy certified to the city clerk Tuesday morning. The levy was fixed at a special meeting of the city board last week at which the first highway levy was repealed and a new sum levied in general fund. The old levy amounted to $69,384.74 and the new levy is $70,489.18.

Kaukauna will cut its contingent fund the same amount in order that the total city tax rate may remain the same. At first the sum for the contingent fund was $50,422.77, but this is reduced to $29,321.35.

Of the new levy, charitable and penal institutions will receive $1,285.05 and state special charge are $1,263.34. The amount set aside for county tax increased from $9,123.94 to $13,147.69. Four road bond issues will receive the following amounts: $272,000 issue, $7,359.69; the second $272,000 issue, $7,359.69; the third $272,000 issue, $7,359.69; the fourth $272,000 issue, $7,359.69.

County-town aid, allotted $2,648.90 in the old levy receives nothing in the new. The two mill road tax was reduced from $35,102.80 to $21,716.18, mother's pension fund is $2,716.80 and the old age pension is $750. The county school tax is $8,448, the same as in the original levy.

A new item in the last levy is the $7,250.57 set aside for back taxes from the 1925 reassessment. The total city budget amounts to $236,140.24.

Mayor W. C. Sullivan has called a special meeting of the council for 8 o'clock Wednesday evening.

REORGANIZATION PLANS EXPLAINED TO CITIZENS

Kaukauna — About one hundred and fifty citizens attended the citizen's booster meeting called at the council rooms Tuesday evening by Mayor W. C. Sullivan to hear reorganization plans of the Molech company. It was decided to conduct a solicitation of the city for subscriptions in a final effort to raise the needed $25,000 worth of stock still waiting to be sold. A total of $80,000 worth of stock must be sold on or before Dec. 31, 1926, if the reorganization plans are to be put through, it was pointed out. J. O. Posson was named chairman of the committee and he will call a meeting Wednesday at which time solicitors will be appointed.

Everyone present Tuesday evening approved of the reorganization plans and believed it would be successful if put into operation. Several of the directors explained how the plant had benefited Kaukauna in the past and how it would grow larger each year. They also explained the working of the plant.

Cubs Are Defeated 18 to 9 in Industrial League Game at Appleton

Kaukauna — In a great game of basketball, the Kimberly-Clark mill team of Kimberly defeated the Kaukauna T. M. C. A. cubs 18 to 9 on the Appleton Y. M. C. A. floor Tuesday evening in an industrial league tilt. The Kimberly team was greatly strengthened by the addition of Clark, one of the Kimberly State league team regulars. Kimberly led at half time 10 to 5. Van Rysin and Busch of the mill team squad played a good defensive game, keeping Kaukauna's crack shot, Algeo, well covered. Despite close guarding, Algeo caged three baskets, all of the ringers made by the Kaukauna team. St. Mitchell and Farwell also played a good defensive game for Kaukauna but Kimberly made many of their baskets on long shots. Pope got four of Kimberly's seven baskets, La Rue, Clark and Van Rysin each making one.

The purpose of this article is to give you the basic principles of Chiropractic in a general way. Chiropractic proclaims to the world that disease and health are conditions of organs, and the power which created man, chiropractically termed Innate Intelligence, which is placed within him, will carry him all through life in normal health, if it can express itself normally from the brain to the tissue cell or organs.

It is an established anatomical fact that the brain is the seat of life or great nerve center of the body, and that it has a prolongation, the spinal cord, which passes downward through a canal in the spinal column. This spinal cord also has prolongations called the spinal nerves which pass out through the intervertebral foramina (small openings between the bony segments or vertebrae of which the spine is built up).

Disease is an evidence of lack of nerve energy or balance, not some diseases but all diseases, not traceable to wounds.

These broad claims are founded on experience and by years of success, out-reaching every other method.

Chiropractic is the only science that exactly locates the cause of diseases which is pressure on nerves or spinal cord at the spine, by misaligned vertebrae which interferes with transmission or function from brain to organs.

The true Chiropractor removes the obstructions, thereby allowing Nature's restorative powers to reach the diseased parts.

True Chiropractors do not treat effects. They remove the cause and Nature cures the disease.

FORMER RESIDENT OF CHILTON DIES

Mrs. Justin Harper Succumbs
at Son's Home Near Neenah

Special to Post-Crescent
Chilton — Mrs. Justin Harper, 80, for many years a resident of this city, died at the home of her son, Herbert, near Neenah, on Sunday afternoon, after a long illness. Mrs. Harper, formerly Miss Adaline Yale, was born near Chilton. In the early twenties was married to Justin Harper. Four children were born three of whom survive. The family lived in this city until about 15 years ago, when they moved to Menasha. About eight years ago, Mr. Harper died, and three years later Mrs. Harper and the only daughter, Lulu, moved to Yakima, Wash., where they have since resided.

Six weeks ago she came to Menasha to visit at the home of her son, where she died. The body will be brought to Chilton on Wednesday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held from Trinity Presbyterian church. The Rev. Luther Harwood, will be in charge. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Surviving are one daughter, Lulu, and two sons, John and Herbert, both of Menasha, and six grandchildren.

At a regular meeting of Calumet Chapter of the Order of Eastern Stars Monday evening the following officers were elected and appointed: Worthy matron, Alma Jensen; worthy patron, William Staus; associate matron, May Rau secretary, Clara Haesley; treasurer, Esery Schink; conductress, Laura Staus; associate conductress, Melitta Arps; chaplain, Louise Paulsen; marshal, Mathilda Kurtz; organist, Bertha Hipke; Adah, Elsie Arps; Ruth, Lucille Hipke; Esther, Gertrude Tesch; Martha, Anna Osthoff; Electa, Luella Krug; warder, Tillie Siegrist; sentinel, Walter Kurta. It was decided to hold a joint installation with the Blue lodge and the Royal Arch chapter on January 10.

SURVEY INDICATES HEAVY SURPLUS OF COMMON LABORERS

Employment Conditions Re- ported Below Normal in Ap- pleton Plants

Jobs are scarce in Appleton, a survey of mills and employments agencies throughout the city indicates. At one paper mill there is a waiting list of about 150, the largest recorded so far this year. While no other mill had waiting lists as large as this, all reported an over supply of common labor.

Because of heavy snow of the past week, approximately 50 men were given temporary employment with the street department. A scarcity of trucks prevented the employment of more men, according to R. F. Hackworth, street commissioner.

Others manufacturing concerns throughout the city also report an increased number of men seeking employment.

No demand for skilled labor is reported at the Y. M. C. A. employment bureau, although a few common laborers were given positions last week. There is always a certain number of applications for common labor at all times and the condition this year is about the same as it was during the same period last year, it is reported.

At the Vocational school employment bureau an unusual condition exists in that there are many applications from girls seeking work as maids and housegirls. Usually there is a large demand for girls, according to Herb Heilig, director. The employment situation in regard to boys is about average. Several boys were placed in positions last week and there is the usual number attending the Vocational school seeking part-time employment.

The woman's club employment bureau refused to give any information.

CONSIDER STATE EDUCATION BOARD

Interim Tax Committee Will Discuss Proposal at Meet- ing Thursday

Madison—(AP)—Creation of a state board of education, to replace the numerous boards and governing bodies now in charge of Wisconsin's educational system is being considered by the interim tax committee, which will meet Friday to frame various recommendations to the coming legislature.

While the committee has given no hint as to what the proposed board would consist of its powers and plan of action, members said the new plan would eliminate the board of University regents, the board of regents and a number of other smaller bodies. The plan was considered with a view to eliminating expense incident to the present plan of governing the educational institutions by boards, committees, and regents. It is expected that the committee will make a final recommendation Friday, when the tentative bill drafted by the committee will be read and discussed.

The recommendations of the committee to be passed on finally Friday include measures to reduce taxation and change methods of assessment. The committee will oppose reduction of the personal property tax, advocate reduction of the corporate income tax from six per cent to four and one half per cent, change in payment of state income taxes to coincide with payment of the federal income tax. They will recommend that the 1927 state income tax be eliminated, advancing the time of payment one year.

The final recommendations will include a bill to tax banks on an income basis, eliminate the present system of automobile fees and substitute two classes, one $15.00 and another $18.00, to tax merchants and manufacturers on an average inventory instead of an inventory taken but once a year.

A four year term for the governor and four other major other elective state offices will also be advocated in a bill, which will, if passed, eliminate thirty state boards and commissions and substitute for them "a governor's cabinet" of three men.

BRIGHT ALL STAR BILL AT THE APPLETON FOR THE WEEKEND

"Stepping Stone," the fast dance act which heads the bright all star bill at the Appleton for the weekend, is a fast offering presented by a real quintet of dance favorites. The Three Musical Misses present a musical treat of tuneful tunes, both jazz and classical. Mates Brothers have a unique novelty "Upside Down." Herbert and Black have a rip roaring comedy vehicle "Ma's Pancakes" which is a sure cure for the Blues whether it is good for indulgence or not. Will Kramer the "Nutty Monologist" completes the bill with his original stories and songs.

Patrons will have choice of two photoplay offerings in conjunction with the vaudeville bill. On Friday and Saturday "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em" starring Louise Brooks and Larry Gray assisted by Evelyn Brent, will be shown. Needless to say this is a comedy based on the modern misses battle cry. On Sunday a stirring photoplay of the circus with all its thrills entitled "Spangles" will be the photo.

New Law Reduces Number Of Greenwich Weddings

Greenwich, Conn.—(AP)—Connecticut's new law which in effect delays hasty marriages five days has cut almost in half the monthly marriage figures of this city, which has been called "America's Gretna Green."

Before the law requiring non-residents to take out a license five days before marriage, Greenwich had about eighty marriages a month. Recently it has had forty to fifty.

SCENE OF MANY NOTABLES
The lure of Greenwich's reputation as a good place to get married still draws sufficient couples to afford a harvest of interesting experiences and some addition to incomes for town officials. There is a fascination for many couples in going to Greenwich just as there is for married couples who have married such notables as Constance Talmadge, Dorothy Gish, the Dolly Sisters, Pat Somerset and Edith Day, Mr. Von Schellie, whose bride was the "veiled woman" in the Ellswood murder case, and Philip Blum, adopted son of the late multi-millionaire, Morton F. Plant, and Constance Bennett, movie actress.

Many couples explain carefully that they are on their way to distant towns and cities and must hasten to keep on schedule. Others have booked steamer passages. Some admit frankly the spontaneity of their decision.

"ALL-HOUR JUSTICES"
"A little while ago I was run up from a hotel in the early morning hours," said one justice of the peace. "When the town clerk had been routed out of bed, he protested at the hour, but the would-be groom was very willing to compensate for the trouble."

"As I looked at the young woman memory brought back a similar case four years previously. 'Surely,' I said to the young woman, 'You are the girl I married to a Yale student without knowing you were only sixteen years old at the time.' She blushed and nodded confirmation, and I proceeded with the ceremony. The groom was Philip Plant and the bride Constance Bennett."

People have odd ideas at odd times, continued this justice. "A golfing party who had been at the Larchmont course in the afternoon came one summer's night to a local inn for dinner. At the end of the repast I was asked to join the party—for official reasons.

WORKING MEN PAY BEST
"One of the men in the party, it appears, had remarked to one of the women, 'Let's get married.' 'I don't care if I do,' said the woman. So they were."

"Of course, I never marry anybody who is under the influence of liquor, but intoxicated couples frequently come to me."

The couples who come to Greenwich for hasty weddings differ greatly in their valuation of the justice's services. It is not the wealthy people, as a rule who pay the largest fees, but the working men.

THRILLS ABOUND IN WESTERN ROMANCE STARRING TOM MIX

Surrounded by an excellent cast and supplied with one of the most thrilling stories of the West ever brought to the silver screen, Tom Mix, as Jeff Boyden, gives a remarkably fine performance in "Hard Boiled." Fox Films version of Shannon Fife's romantic tale of a dude ranch, which comes to the New Bijou three days starting Thursday.

In this, his latest release, the great Western ace finds, upon leaving his comfortable home in Chicago, but crooks are crooks — no matter where they are encountered.

In this particular case, the bad men are New York gun artists, headed by one Diamond Sadie, and they are bent upon mischief in the Far West.

In the course of the action, Tom encountered them planning a little hunt which, if successful, would bring to their strong boxes some of the most desirable jewels in the safe at the famous Bolling Springs, where Abigail Gregg rules with an iron hand.

Just how Tom and Tony, working with "Spec" O'Donnell and a homely little dog, enlist the interest of the beautiful Marjorie Gregg, engineer a startling rescue, and land the culprits behind bars, develop into a Western release of rare beauty and dramatic action.

Helen Chadwick, seen as Marjorie Gregg, is said to do the finest work of her seven career. In the cast are Emily Fitzroy, Phyllis Haver, Ethel

16 LAWRENCE GRIDDERS AWARDED LETTERS FOR 1926

Crack Green Bay Hockey Squad Invades Appleton For Game Christmas Day

Jimmy Crowley, Red Heardon in Lineup of All-star Irish Collegians

Manager George Uebelacher's Schlarfer-Galpin Maroons, Appleton's representatives in the Fox River Valley Ice Hockey loop, will do battle with an all-star independent team Christmas day at Jones park when the Irish Collegians of Green Bay invade this city. The local manager commended negotiations Wednesday with James Gallegher, manager of the Bay team, a member of the Wisconsin freshman hockey squad. Every member of the Bay squad is a college athlete who will be spending his vacation at home in Green Bay.

Jimmy Crowley, backfield ace of Knute Rockne's famous Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, will be goal tender for the Baymen while Tom "Red" Heardon, 1926 Irish captain and rear wall star, will also be in the lineup. Crowley returned to the Bay this week.

Other members of the Bay squad are the two Murphys, the youngest of whom was a backfield and cage star at East Green Bay high last year. Gallegher, two members of the 1926-27 Badger varsity squad, and a Bay boy who is out for the Chicago University squad.

The fact that Heardon and Crowley will play here should in itself be enough to guarantee a large crowd of local athletic fans at the battle. Not only hockey fans but followers of football and especially the famous Notre Dame eleven, probably will congregate to see two of Rockne's greatest stars perform on the ice to give them the once-over.

In opposition Appleton will present a good squad built around men who played on the 1925-26 team, which beat everything in the valley and had an undefeated hold on the league banner until it withdrew from the circuit. This group also brought other hockey league titles here in the last few years.

Capt. Percy Sharp is one of the leading speedsters and hockey players in the valley. He has won several medals and cups for his blades ability. Carl "Tash" Tash, veteran of Appleton squads for several seasons, will defend the local goal. Other men equally as well versed in hockey lore will present the opposition against the Bay crew, which is composed of the best hockeyists in this city.

TWO VALLEY BOYS GET M. U. FROSH AWARDS

Two athletes, prominent in Fox river valley sport circles last year, were honored by Marquette university this week for their work on the 1926 freshman grid squad. The boys, Neil Gonyo of Kaukauna, and Radick of West Green Bay, earned their numerals as regulars on the yearling squad and both are looked upon as promising material for the frosh cage team.

Gonyo played at end for Marinette and Radick at guard, the positions where both were regarded as among the best in the valley last year. In basketball both are stellar guards and it would not surprise valley fans to see the pair hold down the regular frosh guard jobs. Radick was all-tourney guard here and Gonyo, with Farrell, gave Kaukauna high its best defense in years. The Kaws were knocked out of the tourney when Gonyo was declared ineligible just before the season ended.

Another Kaukauna high star of last year, Wally Kilgas, won a reserve award in his first year at Oshkosh Normal while Stulp, Neenah frosh, won a regular letter.

Albany—Sammy Marco, Detroit, defeated Red McGee, New York 12-

OLD VALLEY RIVALS RENEW CAGING FEUD IN ARMY-NAVY GAME

"The world is a small place after all."

That statement made frequently when friends from the same city or section meet in out of the way parts of the globe, will probably be heard again in high athletic circles this year. For two former valley conference high school basketball stars from the Little old Fox river valley of Wisconsin will oppose each other on the courts when the Army and Navy meet in their historic games this winter. And the boys, stars of their respective teams back in 1921, 1922 and 1923, have met before in valley conference cage games. Both graduated from high school in 1923.

J. Stewart Mills, regular forward on the Army squad last winter, son of Dr. and Mrs. N. P. Mills of Appleton, will represent the valley conference on the Army team, while Harry Quast, of Sheboygan, will be a regular forward on the Navy squad, according to reports from Annapolis. Back in their high school days Mills and Quast met on the courts at Sheboygan and Appleton as star forwards on strong rival high school squads, striving for conference titles. Now in a much more historic setting, that famous service rivalry the two friendly rivals will battle once more. Perhaps after the game they may even meet and talk over old battles of high school days down in the old Fox valley so far away, and wonder at the fact that pits them, natives of cities but a few miles apart, against each other as representatives of the two powerful branches of Uncle Sam's service.

SCHEURLE TIRE SQUAD OPENS AT HORTONVILLE

Scheurle's Tires, strong Appleton basketball squad, will open its 1926-27 season Wednesday evening at Hortonville with a crippled lineup, due to the absence of three star cagers, who are playing with other squads that night. The Scheurle crew will meet the strong Hortonville city team at the Auditorium.

Included in the local lineup are Zussman and Basing, former Lawrence cagers; Gavin and Algeo of Marquette university; Reetz, Koll and Scheurle, former Appleton high stars and Eggert, Appleton high and vocational school player. Algeo, Koll and Scheurle will not be with the Tires. The former is playing at Wrightstown with the Kaukauna Cubs, while the latter two are regulars on the Kimberly-Clark Athletics, who battle Kohler at Kohler.

Managers desiring games with the Tires have been requested to write or call the Scheurle Tire shop, 218 E. College-ave, Appleton.

TIGERTON TOSSERS WHIP HORTONVILLE

Hortonville—Friday the strong Tigerton squad defeated the local highs by a score of 11-8 in the fastest game ever played on the local floor. The first half ended 4-4 with Tigerton on the smaller end, but in the last half the visitors rallied and finished with an 11-3 victory.

The floor work of Hortonville was superior to that of Tigerton, but the ability to cage long shots won the game for the visitors.

BALL MAGNATES FAVOR

JUDGE LANDIS AS HEAD

Chicago — (AP) — Much Christmas shopping but very few Christmas sales was the net result of the first day of the annual meeting of baseball magnates here. Many prices were asked and given on players contracts and some of these bargains likely will be negotiated before the end of the gathering.

Between the bidding on players, the American League owners decided to reelect Commissioner K. L. Landis, and then get him to reestablish the advisory board. The National League at New York took similar action.

MINNEAPOLIS BOXER DIES AFTER SCRAP

Minneapolis — (AP) — Harry "Berg" Berglund, Minneapolis lightweight boxer who was knocked out in the last round of a scheduled six round bout here Tuesday night, died in a local hospital early this morning.

WAREHOUSE HOLDS TOP IN K-C BALL LEAGUE

The Warehouse team still retains its lead in the Kimberly-Clark interdepartmental punchball league by virtue of a win over the Bookmill squad. The office threatens to upset the dope by handing the strong Warehouse boys a beating in their next meeting. The office defeated the Laboratory in a close game when the Gertrudians kept their state clean by losing their fourth straight engagement to the Office.

SATURDAY GAMES
7:30—Coated Paper Co. vs. Riverside
8:45—Citizens Bank vs. Co. D.

In a pair of games which showed that the 1927 industrial cage loop is much stronger than that of 1926, the Kimberly-Clark and Fox River Paper Co. squads forged into a tie for the lead in the loop Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, knocking their rivals who also were tied for the top before the games, from their undefeated records. The K-C men whipped the Kaukauna "Y" squad, 18-9, and the Fox River men trounced the Galpin Hardwares, 18-11.

In the opener the Kawsmen showed the effects of playing these hard games in four nights and their work was ragged as compared with their play against the Citizens Bank last week. The K-C men played tight defensive ball to win and hurried the Kaws shooting aces at all times. Only Algeo, star of the Kaws team, played the full game, sinking the only three fingers his squad got and adding a free try for 7 of 9 points.

The play of Miller, St. Mitchell and Farwell, which aided Algeo in giving the Kaws their first win, was below form. The game was close until the final half when Kimberly broke loose with a barrage of shots which soon settled the game, while holding Kaukauna tight. Tim Pope was the star of the K-C men. The slightly-built forward caged four ringers and a pair of extra points for 10 of his team's 18 and his floor game was excellent.

In the second game a shift of line-up in the Galpin Hardwares threw away a good chance for a win. With Galpins leading 6-7 at the half and every prospect of a battle royal with the heavier Fox River guard which would end in a one or two-point win for either team, the team which had been working so well together was split when three subs were sent in. Later the other men returned to the game but it was too late. The Galpins missed the stellar defensive work of Welk, a guard, who was not in a suit.

Long baskets from mid-floor and beyond in the final periods gave the Suetzmen the battle. Ray Tornow lead the onslaught with three of his special underhand straight-line throws, but Cave Radtke started the work with a long try which demoralized the new Galpin sub long enough for the other shots to be tried, without much guarding. The "wickedest" try of the day was dropped by Gib Stephens, Fox River guard. He jumped the ball in with a long shove from the free throw line soon after the game started. The Baetzmen took advantage of Galpin fouls to make three straight free throws in the last quarter to make sure of the win.

Ray Tornow with his three ringers and four free tries lead the winning attack with 10 of 15 points. For the losers, Zussman played the best game, his floor and guarding being especially good. Remmell and Bloomer also went well.

CALL MEETING TO WORK ON SCHEDULE

Chicago—(AP)—A showdown in the Western Conference football schedule system whether the Big Ten shall continue as an association fostering sportsmanship or become a "playing league" is the aim of a conference of representatives from each university invited to Chicago next month by Major John T. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the Big Ten.

Most of the university presidents, regents, alumni athletic directors and football coaches have promised to attend. Major Griffith said Wednesday in predicting the gathering, probably would be a far more reaching in consequence than any conference meeting previously held.

Petersburg, Fla. — Kewpie Trimble, Chicago, beat "Dandy Kid" Dorland, Oklahoma (10).

COLLINS PICKS TWO RIVALS OF SPEAKER

With the passing of Tris Speaker, baseball's greatest outfielder, from the American league, there has been much discussion as to the closest rival he ever had for center field honors.

Here is what Eddie Collins, who has seen them come and go for 20 years in the American league, thinks:

"Hay Felsch was far behind Tris Speaker in natural ability but lacked Speaker's keen mind."

"Johnny Mostil, who took Felsch's place in the Chicago White Sox line-up, is a close second. Mostil is faster than either Felsch or Speaker, but lacks the consistency of those two."

SAYS AMERICANS ARE NOT GODLESS

Majority of People Believe in God, Radio Speaker Maintains

Milwaukee—(AP)—That the American people are not a Godless nation, but rather believers in Jesus Christ and in immortality, is revealed in a census being taken in American states believes Douglas W. Swiggett, a member of The Milwaukee Journal's editorial staff, who spoke last night over station WHAD.

"Some people seem surprised that the census being taken in American states shows that the majority of people believe in God, immortality, and the divinity of Jesus Christ. Especially they seem surprised when the majority of New Yorkers believe in these things," said Mr. Swiggett.

"That ought not to be news, but the disbelievers, real and pretended, are always making a loud noise. 'People who believe in God, even though they do not all believe in the same thing, believe in goodness. Whatever their practices, they think it is the purpose of the Divine Ruler of the universe that they should do what is right. And they are not so doubtful as to what is right as they sometimes pretend. When they go on the witness stand, they sometimes forget.'"

"No other event in all history, written or unwritten, has had so much influence in the world as the spirit of Christianity from a small and obscure province of Rome in Asia. Believe in the divinity of Christ or not you are forced to accept the plain fact that Christianity turned the world upside down."

"Further, whatever you may think of the failures of people who profess to believe in Jesus of Nazareth, any ordinary examination of history will show any fair minded person that without Christianity, the material developments in the world would simply have destroyed our civilization before this. However foolish some of the ways in which we celebrate Christ, may be, it will be time for chaos when we cease to believe in the birth of Christ, the most important event in the knowledge of man."

TOUGH BREAKS SPOIL SEASON FOR H. JONES

Dame fortune has been most unkind this year to Coach Howard Jones of University of California.

Conceded to have one of the greatest teams in the country, he lost his two big games with Stanford and Notre Dame by a one-point margin, the score in each instance being the same, 13-12.

Failure to make the point after touchdown proved fatal in each game. Incidentally both of Southern California's opponents came from behind to win.

COSTS $10,000 TO JOIN DETROIT CLUB

Detroit—The Detroit Golf club is recognized as the richest organization of its kind in the world.

It is situated two miles within the city limits of Detroit. It consists of 212 acres and they are valued at $21,000,000.

It costs $10,000 to become a member of the club.

EXCURSION RATES TO COVER HOLIDAY TRIP

Special holiday round trip excursion fares between all stations have been arranged by the Soo line. On Dec. 23, 24 and 25 a one way ticket will take place of a round trip ticket to any station on the road. This same rate will be good on Dec. 30, 31 and Jan. 1. These short limit excursion tickets are good for return until midnight of the Monday following the sale.

On Dec. 17 and 18 tickets for all points and return will be sold for the regular fare and one half additional. On Dec. 23, 24 and 25 tickets for all points will be sold for one fare and one third extra. These latter tickets will be good for return until Jan. 3.

SWISS PROFESSOR TO ADDRESS U. W. STUDENTS

Madison—(AP)—Dr. Erwin Schrodinger of the University of Zurich, Switzerland, will deliver a series of lectures on new theories of atomic structure before students at the University of Wisconsin next month.

Dr. Schrodinger's recent research has dealt largely with the theory of properties of matter and the quantum theory of atomic structure. His articles have appeared during the past year in scientific periodicals and have attracted wide attention, and will soon be reprinted in book form.

In the recent articles, Dr. Schrodinger develops a new point of view with respect to atomic structure which promises to be of great importance. His lectures to the University of Wisconsin students will deal not only with his own theory but with other recent developments in the theory of atomic structure.

Dr. Schrodinger is an Austrian by birth. He received his early training and began his scientific career in the University of Vienna. He subsequently was professor at the University of Stuttgart, then at Breslau, and for the past four years has been professor of theoretical physics at the University of Zurich.

Ethel Hayes, who sketches flappers for NEA Service and Appleton Post-Crescent recently drew a sort of combination skirt-and-bloomer arrangement whereby windy days and high street car steps would be robbed of all their terrors for the rolled-hose sex. Clara Bow, film actress, saw the sketch and liked it. She's shown here wearing the what-do-you-call-it.

TEACHERS DISCUSS STUDY SELECTIONS

Educational Guidance of Pupils as a Preparation for the Election of Studies for the Second Semester was the subject discussed by home room teachers at a meeting held with the principal Monday afternoon. Teachers will talk to their students of the courses offered, the requirements for graduation, and requisites for college entrance. Pupils may then think of their programs of studies and talk of them with their parents during the Christmas vacation prior to advance registration in January, H. H. Helbie, principal said.

Minographed material was distributed to the teachers citing these requirements.

An athletic stadium seating 3,000 will be erected at Panama.

THE NEW EDISON LONG PLAYING PHONOGRAPH

NO NEEDLES TO CHANGE

Bring a new pleasure into the home this Christmas. Now you can have music in your home that once you got only with a concert ticket. You don't leave your home, nor your easy chair. No record juggling. Concert programs are rendered in your home just as you might hear them in Carnegie Hall. Dinner orchestras play for you from "soup to nuts." It's a phonograph — not the kind you're used to—but an utterly new kind of phonograph and record, invented by Thomas A. Edison, creator of the phonograph. The music contained in a whole album of ordinary records now contained complete on one DOUBLE-FACED record.

Free, public 40 MINUTE CONCERTS all day, every day. Hear this new musical miracle.

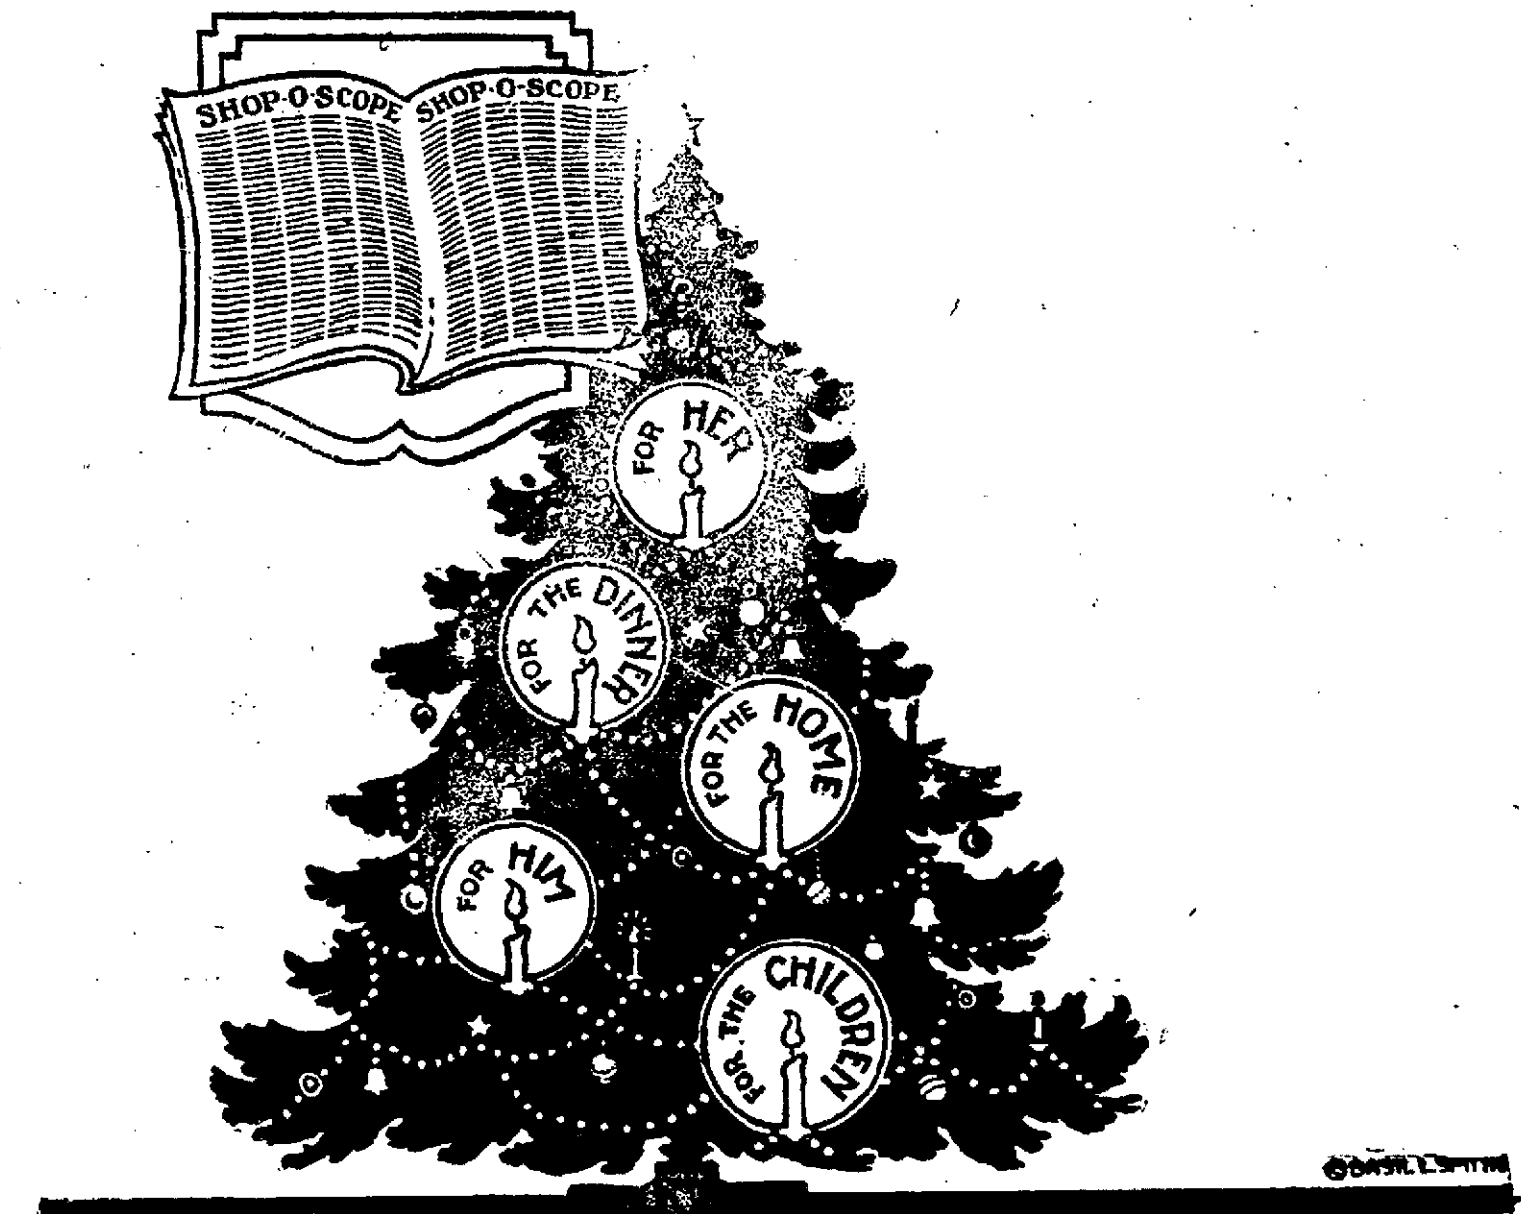

No Distortion!
All Edison Records are recorded by Mr. Edison's Secret Processes. There is absolutely no distortion. This is not a mere claim. It has been proved—in the only way that it can be proved—by actual side-by-side comparison with other phonographs and the living artists themselves.

Many great artists have been singing and playing for years in direct comparison with their Edison Records in the large concert halls of the world. Millions of discriminating music-lovers are unable to detect any difference between the performance of the artist and that of Mr. Edison's Miracle Phonograph.

In selecting your phonograph, remember that only the New Edison Phonograph has ever dared the test of side-by-side comparison with the living artist.

MISSION OF SEALS MADE ESSAY TOPIC FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

Cash Prizes Have Been Offered Winners of Anti-Tubercular Treatise

Students of the Junior high schools will write essays on "The Mission of the Christmas Seal" to promote the sale and knowledge of the stamps issued to support the Anti-Tuberculosis associations of America. Cash prizes have been offered by the local committee from the Appleton Post-Crescent for the best of these compositions. The awards will be $10, $5 and $3.

The seal campaign will continue until Christmas day, according to Mrs. William Nemaehack, chairman of the Appleton committee. Appleton has been asked to sell stamps valued at $250 more than last year, and letters have been sent to citizens asking them to buy the seals and help the work to continue. Half of the proceeds of the sale will be used for local health work, and the remainder will be sent to the state association to be used in the prevention of tuberculosis in Wisconsin.

A three day free chest clinic will be held under auspices of the association soon, it has been announced. Physicians connected with the organization in Milwaukee will direct the examinations. Monthly free clinics have been conducted by the women's club under Dr. C. A. Boyd, physician at Riverside sanatorium. These are without expense to the club or the state.

In communities where clinics have been held, a follow-up service is conducted by the association. Special tuberculosis workers confer with the patient and his family physician to try to persuade the patient to enter a sanatorium. The aim of these institutions is to prevent as well as to cure the disease.

Teachers are instructed in means of teaching health at the county normal schools and teachers training schools by representatives from the association. Student nurses are trained for public health work and for social work at the health service training school of the organization. Other health projects are conducted from providing milk lunches for school children to financing clinics.

Work of the association includes: conduction of a public health program through its monthly magazine The Crusader, newspapers, lectures, movies, slides and exhibit; promotion of open air schools, rooms, and nutrition clinics; maintenance of a research department. These are all financed by the proceeds from the Christmas seals.

To use the seals on Christmas packages is urged by the committee as well as to buy them.

APPLETON YOUTH MAY STUDY AT ANNAPOLIS

Edward Blessman, Appleton, a freshman at Lawrence college, was chosen candidate for appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis from the Ninth district of Wisconsin, through the efforts of Congressman George J. Schneider, it is reported.

Notice of the appointment was received Saturday by Cong. Schneider from the Secretary of the Navy.

Blessman, who is 19 years old, lives with his aunt, Mrs. T. J. Krause at 1250 S. Pierce-ave. He was graduated from Appleton high school in 1925. He was prominent in school and class affairs and was football manager his senior year. He also was president of the Appleton H-Y last year and was one of the local boys honored by having his name engraved on the large metal "C" of the football field. He was voted to the five best all-around boys in the boys' department each year.

CARRIERS GLAD WHEN MAIL BOX IS ACCESSIBLE

"Ain't it a grand and glorious feeling," According to rural mail carriers, it really is such a sensation to drive up to a mail receptacle where the horse doesn't have to pull the sled through three feet of snow. After working ten hours on snow covered roads on a cold day, with both the mailman and the horse tired out, it is a real treat to be able to drive to the mail boxes instead of having to force the horse through three and four foot drifts and then probably having to get out of the sled and tramp through the snow to reach the box, mail carriers say.

Many of the farmers, according to the carriers, spend a few moments clearing away the snow about the box after a storm and this little courtesy means a lot to the carriers after an especially hard day.

"Neither beast nor human likes to face a three foot drift after ten steady hours of work in the cold and you can imagine what a glorious feeling we get from a clear mail box," one of the carriers said.

ASHLAND COLLEGE PLAYERS TO TOUR

Ashland—(AP)—Normandy colors interwoven in the costumes of the Ashland college school opera performers will lend old-world atmosphere to the presentation during the Christmas holiday tour. The costumes are being made by students at the college, members of a school music class. The opera "Chimes of Normandy" which is to be given in tour in 13 cities during the Christmas holidays by a cast of 30 students, is the most ambitious project the glee clubs have yet attempted.

Various groups in French society of the time, nobility, peasants, craftsmen, sailors and others are depicted in the opera, and the variety and colors of the costumes greatly enhance the dramatic action. The nobles wear frock coats, frocks, short breeches, and white wigs, while the peasants make merry in short breeches, stock white shirts with Peter Pan collars, and cocked hats.

Even in the days of Louis XIV the nouveau riche were a problem to poor and rich alike. Grenicheux the fisherman, who is played by Jens Hansen, Hayward and Serpolette, the village gossip, played by Helen Thompson, Mercer, are the two in the opera who furnish amusement with their garish clothing and loud manners.

The making of the costumes are: Dorothy Craig, Green Bay; Helen Thompson, Mercer; Joyce Snyder, Iron River; and Margaret Anderson, Edith Bloss, Karen Bratton, Dorothy Hitchcock and Dorothy Taylor, Ashland. Their work is directed by Prof. Frederick Schweppe, coach, who is working out detailed plans for the opera costuming.

ELECTRIC SERVICE IS EXTENDED TO VILLAGE

The W. T. L. H. and P. Co. is extending its electric lines from Stephentown to Ellington. Many farmers on the route will be benefited by the extension which will probably be completed this week the company believes.

Jell Desserts Three Times a Week

It is said that on the average American families now serve gelatine desserts three times a week. Many use gelatine produces in some form every day as dessert, salad, garnish or with roasts. The latest prepared gelatine product is called Sunlite-Jell, and comes in six flavors—lemon, orange, cherry, raspberry, strawberry and mint for salads, roasts and garnish. Your grocer has Sunlite or can get it.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
JUDITH MARTIN, instructor in Pendleton University, is caught in the feud between the student radicals led by her admirer, ERIC WATERS, and the conservatives led by DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN, and DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor.

Dr. Dorn is also attracted to her and tries to persuade her to conciliate the dean.

MYRA ALDRICH, a student living in Judith's boarding house, is in love with Eric and jealous of Judith.

When "KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, tries to blackmail Dean Brown's wife, Judith befriends her and asks Eric to silence her.

Eric is arrested as a material witness when Shea's body is found in a creek.

Judith finds Eric waiting at her home several days later. He tells Judith that Mrs. Brown has secured his release by telling prodigious lies to the prosecutor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIX

"Married women!" gasped Judith. "He didn't mean—"

Eric nodded. "Yes he did. The dean's wife."

Judith sat perfectly motionless for a full minute, her hand clutching the door of the car.

"Eric went on. 'She had told them that I spent the night before Christmas with her.'"

Judith recoiled. She stared at Eric, who was calmly puffing at his pipe and looking at her with a steady gaze.

"But—," she gasped, after a time. "Why?"

"That's just it," said Eric. "Why, in God's name?"

Judith shook her head. "I can't understand it. It's horrible."

"Well, it is. But it had one compensation—it got me out of that rough-tobacco-garlic jail."

Judith was not listening. "Eric," she said. "Mrs. Brown did that out of gratitude. She's a woman of frantic loyalties. And she felt that you saved her from Shea before. She came to me after your arrest, almost in a frenzy and said we'd have to get you out, some way, any way."

Eric took his pipe out of his mouth and reached with one hand for his tobacco pouch. "Hold the wheel a minute, Jude, while I fill this chimney."

Judith gave him another puzzled glance, as he calmly poured the tobacco into the bowl of the pipe and drew the string of the pouch tight again.

"All I can say," he mused comfortingly, "is that she had an exaggerated sense of gratitude, but it's very fortunate for me."

"Eric," Judith answered, "do you suppose she thought you DID kill Shea?" She looked at him fearfully.

But instead of anger, a chuckle greeted her question. "By golly, Jude, do you suppose so?"

Judith turned away to the far horizon, her eyes clouded.

"Well, I hadn't ended the story yet," said Eric. "When the chief had finished bawling me out for my affair with the dean's wife, he picked up the envelope the jailer had brought in, and tore it open, keeping one scowling eye on me all the while."

"Then he read it through to the end, laid it down and looked at me. 'Seems I've talked out of my turn. But if you know what's good for you, young fellow, you'll keep let this conversation out. If you ever let this conversation out, to your best friend, there are other charges we can push. The prosecutor hadn't told me the lady didn't want you to know. Damn fine woman, I should say. Didn't want you to feel under obligations to her. Now you can clear out.'"

"And I did. So that's that. Look at that little creek, Jude! Peach of a jump on horseback. Someday we'll get some horses and try it. What say?"

The girl beside him turned toward him without looking at the creek. "Eric," she said, very low, "it strikes me that this is something of an obligation that you are under."

She waited for his reply, with anxious eyes fixed on his face.

It came. "Sure thing. Damn fine woman, I agree with the chief."

"But I can't quite see how you could accept such a sacrifice."

Eric shot a quick glance at Judith. "Now don't get any silly nonsense in your head, Jude. Of course I shall wait till the murder is cleared up, help clear it up myself, perhaps—and then I'll go down and tell the chief and the prosecutor that they're fools to have believed the story in the first place. That'll square the dean's wife. Sent her a dozen American beauties this afternoon, too."

Judith was silent.

"Look here, old kid. You wouldn't really have me play don Quixote, and stay in that jail, would you, now, once released I could clear the matter up?"

"I don't know," said Judith. "I'm just trying to think. I'm trying to think how Mrs. Brown felt while she was telling the story to the prosecutor and how she'll feel every time she sees him from now on."

"That's so," said Eric. "I hadn't thought so much about that. You see men don't take those things so seriously as women. Probably the prosecutor knows dozens of women in his own end who really do entertain nocturnal visitors and still don't suffer for any socially."

Judith turned on him. "And so it is quite all right for him to class Mrs. Brown with those women?"

"Now, Jude, don't be foolish. I only mean that the prosecutor's opinion doesn't matter a great deal, for the time being. He'll keep it to himself. I imagine he rather felt for Mrs. Brown himself. And before long I'll have a chance to correct his impressions. So you see it's nothing to worry about."

Judith smiled uncertainly. "Well, that's true. And of course, both she and I do owe you something—perhaps more than we realize."

She glanced at the bruised spot on his brow, and then at his smiling green eyes, and her face softened. "Women spoil you, Eric, and I fear I'm as bad as the rest."

They turned toward home. Eric still puffing calmly at the pipe, and Judith watching the fields and hills fly by.

"What's your theory of Shea's death?" Judith asked after a while. "I'm not sure it was murder," said Eric. "It would have been quite easy to skid off the road over that bank. Stranger motor accidents happen every day. That's one reason why I think it's all just a low conspiracy against me. The dean was out to get me by hook or crook, and Shea's death offered a chance. But just wait. He'll get his."

LITTLE JOE

HAVING ONLY A LITTLE AT LEAST LEAVES YOU A LOT TO STRIVE FOR

Judith laughed. "He already has, I guess. The police told him to get out of the Shea case and stay out. He'll be frantic to know why you were released."

Eric chuckled. "Serves him right if he finds out. But—I'm not satisfied with letting the police crack him down. I shall have something to say to the gentleman myself, one of these days, though I may not say it in so many words."

"If I were you, I think I'd lie low for a while now, Eric."

Eric smiled. "Do you know," she said slowly, as they were nearing home, "that bruises on your head, don't look like one received by running into a door, Eric. Are you sure you weren't in a fight?"

"I don't fight with my fists, old dear. I don't have to," he answered loftily.

The river under the Strathmore bridge gleamed dully when Judith stopped to look at it that afternoon. There was a thin film of ice near the bare brown banks. She turned away from it with a little shudder and went on, past the prim rows of professorial houses, until she came to Avon place.

Here too, the shades and burnished knockers of the houses reflected the gaily ordered lives of their inhabitants.

On the walk before Dean Brown's English cottage, Judith paused, looking curiously at the house front. Every shade was down and the door mat was placed primly against the wall.

She went up the steps and knocked, and could hear the sound echo in the rooms within. For a moment there was silence. Then she thought she heard footsteps. But the sound turned out to be only a movement in the trees nearby.

With a curious glance at the windows, Judith turned away. A little boy trundling a wooden wagon up the driveway next door called out to her. "There ain't nobody at home."

Woman Scientist Still Keeps Feminine Touch

London.—(AP)—Professor Winifred Clara Cullis has nothing of the appearance of women scientists as shown on the stage.

She comes of a scientific family. Her father and two brothers are distinguished scientists, and she has spent much of her life in laboratories and lecture rooms. But there is nothing of the old-fashioned or hibernating recluse in the woman professor of physiology at London university.

GOLFS AND DANCES
As president of the British Federation of University Women and vice-president of the International Federation of University Women, professor Cullis finds time to work for the betterment of women the world over. An din spite of her professional public service duties, she finds time for walking, golfing, cricket and dancing.

Professor Cullis, who is well known in the United States, is very enthusiastic about the attitude of women in North America toward education.

The great numbers of all classes who attend college whether they intend to follow careers or not, appeal to her very strongly.

WOULD FOLLOW U. S. WOMEN
"English women would do well to imitate the example of the women in the new world," she said. "More girls of the upper classes should go to Oxford or Cambridge just as their brothers do, to broaden their outlook on life."

Professor Cullis holds the opinion that marriage need not interfere with women's professional work and that states exceed their authority when they bar married women from public service.

"I do not believe in the so-called protective legislation for women forbidding them to engage in certain industrial occupations on the same lines as men," said Professor Cullis. "I call that restrictive legislation. You will remember Huxley's words, 'If we think a woman is handicapped by nature, for God's sake don't let us add to that handicap by men's laws.'"

The professor is unmarried at fifty and laughingly says she has more need for a wife than husband. She finds it is something of a burden to keep a household going and attend to social duties on top of her professional work.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT TO EXAMINE GUESTS

Children Attending Girl Scout Christmas Party Must Not Be Ill

Children invited to the Christmas party of the Appleton Girl Scouts association Saturday afternoon at Moose hall will be examined by the health department of the city in order to prevent any danger from spreading contagious disease, Miss Agnes Vanneiman, recreation director at the Appleton Women's club and scout director, announced. Children who are ill and are not able to come to the party will be sent gifts, it was said.

Transportation to those guests who live far from the hall. The party is an annual event on the scout program.

Games will open the afternoon's entertainment. Those in charge of the younger group will be Miss Lona Drabheim and Mrs. E. Lehman. The older groups will be directed by Miss Mary Rogers and Mrs. H. H. Hebble. The four troops, Shamrock, Beaver, Florence Nightingale and Cloverleaf, will help the directors. Miss Vanneiman will direct a group of games played by all children and Christmas songs, story telling and gifts will complete the program.

WATER DEPARTMENT FACES BUSY HOURS
Owing to the sudden cold weather, the city water department was deluged with calls Tuesday, from homes in all parts of the city, asking for repairs to meters which froze and burst, according to Fred Morris, secretary of the water commission. City water meters are equipped with a safety device which bursts when the water begins to freeze, thus eliminating broken meters. Many of the safety devices break every time a cold snap visits the city, Mr. Morris pointed out.

MAIDS

Class Conducted by Jerry Rosenberg

Class: "Oh, teacher, we can hardly wait to have you tell us about maids!

Please tell us quickly."

Teacher: "Maids are women of various ages that are paid for acting like a lazy daughter."

Class: "What's the difference between a maid and a hired girl?"

Teacher: "The hired girl is a thing of the past. Aside from the fact that the hired girl worked for $5 a week and the maid demands $15, the principal difference lies in the fact that the hired girl was willing to be of some help around the house."

Class: "What is a French maid, teacher?"

Teacher: "A French maid is a young woman named McGillicuddy or

Ginsberg whose legs look neat in black silk stockings."

Class: "Why do people have maids?"

Teacher: "Because other people in the same bridge club have them."

Class: "Why are maids given

Thursday afternoons off?"

Teacher: "To give the lady of the house a chance to put things in order without having the maid underfoot."

Class: "Are there different kinds of maids?"

Teacher: "Yes. There are homely maids who do about half of their work wrong, have a terrible disposition, and were never married. And there are pretty maids who are seeking divorces from their husbands.

They do all their work wrong, cry

when they are reproved, and get a lot of telephone calls from masculine voices."

Reproduction For Hidden

Readers are invited to contribute. All humor—epigrams for humorous mottoes, jokes, anecdotes, poetry, burlesques, satires and bright sayings of children—must be original and hitherto unpublished. Accepted material will be paid for at the rate of $1 to $10, per contribution and from 25 cents to $1 per line for poetry according to its character and value in the judgment of the editor. Unac-cepted contributions cannot be returned. All manuscripts must be written on one side of the paper only and should be addressed Appleton

Post-Crescent.

Class: "Why do young women drift into the occupation of being

maids?"

Teacher: "If a young woman's parents can't afford to send her to college, being a maid is about the only thing she can do, except go to work."

Class: "What is the advantage of having a pretty maid, if they're so useless?"

Teacher: "Having a pretty maid assures the house better police protection."

Class: "Our curiosity is now satisfied, dear teacher, and we bid you a welcome adieu."

Teacher: "Don't swallow any watermelon seeds, and come to class again whenever there's a dull day."

$207 RECEIVED SO FAR IN SEAL SALE

Committee Meets at Home of Mrs. Feathers to Check Contributions

New London—A meeting of the committee on the sale of Red Cross Anti-Tuberculosis seals was held at the home of Mrs. C. D. Feathers Tuesday afternoon to open envelopes which have been submitted to date. There were 47,000 seals sent out this year, these being divided among 500 letters. The amount of $207 has been turned in so far and the committee urges that business houses and private individuals turn in either the unsold stamps or the money at as early a date as possible in order that they may complete their reports. It is anticipated that the sale of seals this year will exceed that of previous years as the first returns are considerably more than heretofore.

NEW LONDON SOCIETY

New London—The Tuesday Five-Hundred club met at the home of Mrs. A. R. Margraff Tuesday afternoon. The annual Christmas party featured the afternoon's entertainment. The home was festively decorated with holly and evergreen. The tables were set with their yuletide suggestions and the menu consisting of Christmas dishes. Cards were played during the afternoon, honors being won by Mesdames Otto Froelich and Charles F. Krueger. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Otto Friebe on Tuesday, Dec. 28.

U. S. AIRPLANES MAY VISIT ALL NATIONS IN SOUTH AMERICA

Good-will Tour Will Last Three Months; Hope to Visit Nicaragua and Ecuador

San Antonio—(P)—Army air corps officials and diplomats of the state department expect this country to reap a double benefit from the army's 18-524 mile aerial tour of Central and South America which will get underway here Dec. 29.

The visit of the ten army pilots to more than seventy cities and thirty geographical divisions is expected to cement closer the countries of the two Americas and at the same time it will offer a severe test of the amphibian plane.

The five planes will be called upon to make more than seventy hops in the good-will tour, which will last three months. They will cross the Andes mountains and will alight on inland and coast waters as well as on land. Every South American and Central American country, with the exception of British Honduras and possibly Ecuador will be visited and many stops will be made in the larger countries.

ROUTE FORMS LOOP
Nicaragua and Ecuador were not listed in the original itinerary for the flight, but since it was published the state department has advised Major Herbert A. Dargue that a stop in Nicaragua would be advisable and arrangements probably will be made to stop at Managua in Ecuador. This route forms a long loop from San Antonio to Washington, D. C., which officials hope will draw the American nations closer together.

The Looming Amphibian plane, which will make the flight is ideally suited, army officials believe, for use in the island possessions of the United States and they expect that the Pan-American tour will offer an indication as to what could be expected of the planes in such service.

CENTRAL PONTON
A large central pontoon, which contains wheels that can be extended for alighting on land, is the most unusual feature of the machines. So equipped they are able to go any place where there is a fast-sized body of water, or a plain large enough for a landing on earth. Each plane is equipped with V type inverted liberty motor and a three-bladed propeller. The single motor is expected to give much less mechanical trouble than would the twin motors used in many flying boats. At the same time it gives the plane a large cruising radius since sufficient gasoline for almost 1,000 miles can be carried as well as 250 pounds of luggage or supplies.

CORN STALKS FOR PAPER IMPROBABLE

U. W. Man Scouts Theory That Print Paper Can Be Manufactured Thusly

Madison—(P)—While the manufacture of print paper from corn stalks that now rot in the ground might be possible, several factors which would improve the adaptability of such an experiment were pointed out Wednesday by H. F. Wilson, forester at the University of Wisconsin's agriculture school.

A bill proposing such manufacturing is proposed by Representative Cole, Republican, Iowa, and seeks an appropriation for Ames College, Iowa, in order to carry on research work. By removing the corn stalks, the soil would be depleted, Prof. Wilson said and the stalks, as a perishable product, would not be able to endure in a manner comparable to the wood now used for paper manufacturing.

"All mills are equipped to handle the present product from which the print paper is made," he said, "and millions of dollars would necessarily have to be expended in order to bring about a revolution in the industry."

There is also the question of whether the new method would be a cheaper process than the present one, he said. "We never had cheap paper until it was made out of wood. Why, then, should we turn from that source of supply when it is the only crop for million of acres?"

Replacement and propagation were cited as the only logical means of keeping the paper supply on a sound basis and as a solution to the growing shortage problem. The United States has lagged far behind other world countries in growing timber crops, Prof. Wilson declared, but the possibilities of creating an inexhaustible supply cannot be underestimated.

Another point discrediting the proposed plan of manufacturing paper, according to Prof. Wilson, is the lack of acreage from which the stalks might be extracted. By raising farm land, the quality of the soil would be reduced greatly and succeeding crops would decrease in both quantity and quality.

For kicking a puppy so hard that it died, William Manson of Hull, England, has been sentenced to three months' hard labor.

Sore Throat? Don't Gargle

Here's Quicker and Better Relief

Why suffer pain, soreness or discomfort while waiting for slow-acting remedies to give relief? Here's a physician's prescription called "Thoxane" that is guaranteed to give relief in 15 minutes. One swallow taken internally goes direct to the cause, and kills the germs. No chloroform, iron or other harmful drugs. Safe and pleasant for children. Always ask for "Thoxane," 50c, 60c and $1.00. Sold under money back guarantee of quick relief. Sold by Volk's and all good drug stores.

UNIFORMITY

College, Detroit, have a four-day week of a kind. That is, on four of the five weekly school days they must wear the uniform pictured above. The uniform was adopted on petition of the girls themselves, to lessen competition in clothes. The pretty demonstration is Miss Wilda, Spann.

ENFORCED DIET MAKES MINERS MORE HEALTHY

Sedgfield, England—(P)—Better health has resulted among persons living in the Durham-co. mining area since the miners' dispute began because the people have been eating less, says the report of the district medical officer.

The authorities report that since May there has been a fall in the death rate to the remarkably low level of 4.1 per thousand. "The decline," says the report, "is due to the fact that the Durham-co. community cannot now indulge in over-eating."

BOBBED HAIR HAS SAVED ONE GERMAN INDUSTRY

Berlin—(P)—"Trim your own," seems to be the motto of large numbers of German maids and matrons who have succumbed to the bobbed-hair epidemic. A large steel goods works announce a heavy increase in the sale of hair clippers, and have found that in most cases women are the ultimate users.

Thus to at least one German industry, in contrast with those hard hit, the bobbed hair fad has proved a decided accelerative.

NO RADIOS CARRIED BY PLANES ON TRIP TO SOUTH AMERICA

Fliers Must Depend on Parachutes. Emergency Rations in Emergency

San Antonio—(P)—Parachutes, emergency rations and their own ability to carry off a bad situation are the principal safeguards against disaster that the army's Pan-American flyers are carrying with them on their air voyage around South America.

Radios, will not be carried on any of the planes, in order to make more room for gasoline, and the route will not be protected with a chain of ships. When the flight leaves one town it will be on its own until it can reach its next stopping place. In case one of the planes is lost the remaining pilots will search for it, if conditions permit and boats will be sent to look for it as possible but the pilot who is forced down upon the water, will probably face a very disagreeable experience.

TO SIGNAL ORDERS
In the absence of radios, Major Herbert A. Dargue will transmit all of his orders, while the flight is aloft, by means of rockets, hand signals, the maneuvers of his plane or messages written on the wings of his craft. Special pistols containing colored rockets will be used for signaling.

Should the major's plane be forced down, Captain A. B. McDaniel, who flies just to the major's right in the V formation, will move up to the apex of the flight and take command.

MAXIMUM SPEED
The planes are constructed with a view to carrying a maximum speed, and while they are seaworthy and can stand a great deal of buffeting by the waves, they are not comfortable vehicles in the water during rough weather.

They are short and stubby and the pilots, should one be forced down, in rough water, would probably have to take a drenching before he could be rescued. High waves are likely to dampen the ignition and shut off the engine, in which case there is danger that the plane will lose headway and fall into the trough of the seas.

The lightest and perhaps most important piece of equipment which the flyers will carry is a tiny container

THIRD GRADERS WILL PRESENT FAIRY PLAY

The conversion of a small boy who did not believe in fairies is the theme of the children's operetta, "A Fairy Conspiracy" to be given by the third grade pupils of the Lincoln school at 7:30 Thursday evening at Lawrence conservatory.

The public has been invited to hear the play, and teachers and school children will be particularly interested, Miss Catherine Bachman, teacher of the grade said.

Characters in the operetta will be fairies, story book people, as Cinderella, Goldenlocks, Jack the Giant Killer, Sleeping Beauty and others—brownies, clowns, and the Boy, Miss Grace Morrison will accompany the production and Miss Bachman will direct the performance.

RADIO-MOVIE SERMONS POSSIBLE, SAYS EXPERT

Hollywood, Cal.—(P)—Radio sermons illustrated by motion pictures are a possibility, says Fred Niblo, film director.

"Advance print of proposed sermons, with a choice of selection, could be sent to churches subscribing to the service," he said. "The wave length, would be printed on each film and, by tuning in on the specified Sunday, the picture could be projected to the accompaniment of radio subtitles and oratory of nationally-known pulpit figures."

"The smallest hamlet could hear the foremost preachers of the day at a nominal cost."

Filled with liquid food. The fliers will carry their meals with them on each hop, but the container of liquid food will not be opened unless the flyer is marooned on the sea, or the desert. Beside the emergency ration each will be equipped with a special first aid kit made up especially for use in the tropics.
